2,160 NEW OWLS LEAVE THE BIJOU

Only Common Mortals When They Entered.

Biggest Initiation in History of South Held on Sunday Afternoon---Next Meeting Will Be Held in the Auditorium on February 19.

Crowding the Bijou theater from top to bottom so that even all the standing room was occupied, over 2,000 applicants for membership in the local nest of the Order of Owls, yesterday attended what is probably the largest institution of any fraternal chapter ever held in America.

If enthusiasm and numbers will constitute the success of an organization of the kind, the local Owls are assured a brilliant future.

Not only have the organizers 2,160 paid applications on the rolls of the organization, but they were compelled to turn away over 250 applicants with initiation fees in their hands because the lawful capacity of the Bijou had been reached, and there was not room enough for another man.

The program of the afternoon was exceedingly interesting, and at times very amusing. The novitiates were instructed in all the rituals and ceremonies of the organization, and, amid wild applause of their more fortunate fellows, twenty-four members were "ridden on the goat," and put through various other nerve-wrecking ordeals to thoroughly test their courage and fortitude.

Officers Are Named.

A slate of officers for the local nest was unanimously elected, as follows: Past president, E. E. Williams, city tax collector; president, William Stephenson (photographer); vice president, W. C. Puckett, investigator city law department; invocator, Rev. C. A. Jamison; warden, W. H. Fulton, Georgian ad department; financial secretary, S. R. Dull, joint freight claim agent L. & N., West Point, Georgia, Southern Railway; recording secretary, Wilfred C. Brown, chief clerk Georgia Railway and Electric Company; treasurer, Henry E. Williamson, treasurer of Elks and teller Fourth National Bank; sentinel, George C. Nealy; picket, E. L. Arthur; trustees, John L. Mell, Mell Plumbing Company; F. H. Lichenwalter, secretary Royal Lumber Company; T. F. Goodwin, wholesale fruits; C. H. Livsey, mayor East Point, Ga., and P. B. Green, of Atlanta Constitution.

Meet in Auditorium.

The members decided to hold the next meeting of the Owls in the Auditorium-Armory, on the evening of Sunday, February 19. Councilman James B. Everett, chairman of the auditorium committee, assured his fellow-members that they might have the hall free of charge on that occasion.

It was unanimously agreed that the present initiation fee of $5 should not be raised until after this meeting, so that the many people who wished to join, but did not have the opportunity on account of the crowded condition of the theater, might be able to get in on the present rate.

Augusta Owls Here.

A delegation of Owls from the Augusta Nest, No. 1223, arrived in Atlanta Sunday morning to participate in the institution of the Atlanta Nest. Among the officers were Vice President James L. Cooper, H. S. Roundtree, W. H. Olive, James White and fifty other members of the Augusta order. These gentlemen were given seats on the stage at the ceremonies.

When [illegible] field, the national organizer of the Order of the United States and Canada, stepped to the front of the stage he was greeted with tumultuous applause. Among many good things he said, "The Owls are sunshine spreaders, they always look on the bright side of life, and when they meet darkness they dispel it by their beneficence. Gentlemen," continued Mr. Caulfield, "spend your time getting ahead, don't waste it getting even. The world has no time for the embittered man, but it welcomes ever the sunny optimist.

"Where would your city have been today had it not been for the firm belief you had in her future? In other words, I might say, the foundation of Atlanta's success is hope, and you certainly have made that hope good."

Mr. Caulfield was followed by Samuel C. Kone, an Owl of national prominence, who came to Atlanta especially to officiate at the institution of the Atlanta nest. "The Order of Owls," declared Mr. Kone, "is the home of great and genuine friendship. It is there where friendship is born, nurtured and sustained. Take the sentiment of friendship out of life and what a cold and barren sphere this world would be. In the ultimate analysis, despite all our boasted independence, we are pretty dependent beings one upon the other. Man was made for the society of his fellows, and I know no place where he appears to better advantage than at a meeting of a nest of Owls, with all masks and disguises thrown off, bathing in the good fellowship which characterizes such gatherings."

DEATH HAS STRICKEN MISS MARY DESHA

She Was One of the Three Founders of the D. A. R.

Washington, January 29.—Miss Mary Desha, 65 years old, one of the three founders of the Daughters of the American Revolution, died suddenly of apoplexy while walking near her home here today. She was educated at Sayre Institute and Kentucky State College, at Lexington, Ky., and taught in the public schools there for several years.

During the Spanish-American war she was assistant director of the D. A. R. hospital corps. She held several offices at different times in the D. A. R., and was also president of the Albert Sidney Johnston chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and a member of various patriotic societies.

ATLANTA CUDDY CAUSES UPROAR

Evangelist Hissed and Hooted at Washington.

Cuddy Interrupts Pastor Russell in Regard to Prediction About Millennium, and Panic Almost Results---The Police Forced to Interfere.

Washington, January 29.—When Pastor C. T. Russell, of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, Brooklyn, N. Y., speaking today at Convention Hall on the millennium, announced that Christ would return to earth in 1915, he was dramatically challenged by W. A. Cuddy, an evangelist of Atlanta, Ga. In the rapid fire exchange of words that followed, the crowd became excited and a panic was averted only by the suppression of Cuddy who was led aside by friends.

Crowd Hissed and Hooted.

More than 1,000 people hissed and hooted when Cuddy interrupted Russell and declared that 1915 was altogether too soon for the melinnium.

"Put him out," shoulted several in the audience.

When Pastor Russell was able to proceed, he declared that the Bible supported his contention that the millenium was due soon. Cuddy burst forth again, charging Russell with "rank heresy," and with attempting to foist his views on weak-minded and ignorant people who never read the Bible.

Cuddy Jostled About.

The crowd resented this and Cuddy was jostled about in the hall until he was out of hearing range.

When the meeting was concluded, however, Cuddy stationed himself outside the hall near the entrance and resumed his refutation of Pastor Russell's remarks.

The police threatened arrest, but Cuddy defied them. Finally the police decided another way to acomplish their end would be to disperse the crowd, and Cuddy walked angrily away.

CURSES HURLED AT UNITED STATES

By the People of Ecuador's Capital.

Opposition to Proposed Lease of Galapogos Islands Has Resulted in Anti-American Riots---Troops Used to Repress the Mobs.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, January 29.—The opposition of the people to the proposed lease of the Galapagos Islands to the United States has resulted in the most serious demonstrations of ill feeling against everything American seen here in many years. The disorders, which began Friday, were continued all through Saturday and at noon today an immense crowd, numbering not less than 10,000 persons, headed by Ignacio Robles, marched to the government palace for the purpose of protesting to President Alfaro.

Troops with loaded rifles prevented the crowds from approaching, and only Robles was received by the president as the people's delegate. He informed President Alfaro that Ecuadoreans were opposed to any negotiations with the United States on the subject of the Galapagos Islands. After a lengthy interview the president said that in view of the manifest opposition, the government would desist in its proposal to negotiate the lease.

Notwithstanding this promise the crowds still remained in the streets, parading in many of the thoroughfares. Mounted troops have been distributed in all parts of the city for the purpose of maintaining order. Detachments of armed guards are also surrounding the palace.

PERU AND ECUADOR ARE AGAIN AT ODDS

Each Government Gives Different Version of Clash on the Border.

Washington, January 29.—Dispatches to the respective ministers of Peru and Ecuador in Washington, from their home governments, give different explanations of the clash on the international boundary in which several persons were killed and which threatens a renewal of the strife between the two countries.

Dr. Arizaga, minister from Ecuador, made public today the contents of a cablegram received from his government indicating that Ecuador had no troops on the border, and was only protecting a jail with its local police.

The Peruvian version of the fight placed the blame upon Ecuadorean troops. Minister Arizaga says that Ecuador has had no military force on the frontier since the mediating powers, the United States, Brazil and Argentina, requested the withdrawal of troops last summer.

Court of Appeals.

Montgomery, Ala., January 29.—(Special.)—At the request of the judiciary committee of the senate, 1,000 copies of the bill which seeks to create a court of appeals in this state, have been ordered printed, in order that the legislators may thoroughly familiarize themselves with the sections of the bill. If passed, the court will be established at once, consisting of three judges, a clerk and a secretary. Proposed changes in the jury commission law will also be placed before all members of the legislature, 1,000 copies of a bill making the amendments having been ordered printed.

AS "DARK HORSE" GOV. DIX LOOMS

In New York Senatorial Fight.

It Is Said If Deadlock Is Not Broken Before February 1 "Boss" Murphy Will Insist on the Governor Taking the Senatorship.

New York, January 29.—Like any other long-drawn-out tug of war, the senatorial pull and haul in New York state has now settled to a stage where neither contestant being able to budge the other, they have little wind for anything but work. Most of the leaders were here today for rest for tomorrow, but not one of them would talk.

Charles F. Murphy spent a dull day at Good Ground, his Long Island country place, and saw nobody. Thomas F. Smith, secretary of Tammany Hall, his spokesman, told all inquirers, "Mr. Murphy has nothing new. He says he's going to stick. That's all."

Mr. Sheehan was in town, but kept himself close. Those who were willing to talk when the situation seemed more plastic, are now hopeless of defining issues anew, and refuse to be quoted, except as they repeat that each day's inaction now makes the final action more important.

One wing of Tammany Hall professes to see at Albany a condition approximating convention days at Rochester, when Mr. Shepard was a candidate for governer and his friends found it impossible to get enough votes to nominate him, and his enemies found it impossible to pick anyone on whom they could center to defeat him.

That deadlock was broken when Governor Dix, then chairman of the state convention, consented to take the nomination. Some Tammany men now say that although Mr. Murphy is committed to Sheehan he would not be adverse to a similar issue from the present impasse. They expect that something is going to be done about it after the first of next month.

It is known the governor has already been sounded. His friends here say he will listen to no such offer; but others insist if the deadlock is not broken before February 1, it will be forcibly represented to him that he has no alternative to consider, but disruption of his party. These advocates cannot believe responsible leaders will permit the present situation to drag on indefinitely.

Like Political Battleground.

Albany, N. Y., January 29.—The state capitol began to resume the appearance of a political battleground tonight when William F. Sheehan and Charles F. Murphy returned from New York to muster forces for the renewal of the fight over Mr. Sheehan's struggle for the United States senatorship. A full attendance is expected when the senate and assembly reconvene for the eleventh joint ballot at noon tomorrow.

When Mr. Murphy was asked if he expected to break the deadlock this week he replied:

"You can't tell. I hope so."

"Every minute they hold out for Mr. Sheehan," he said, "they are hurting the party. Those who are standing by Mr. Sheehan should realize by this time that their chances of ever electing their candidate are absolutely hopeless."

He declared that he and his associates were as determined as ever to defeat Mr. Sheehan.

Mr. Sheehan was asked if he returned any more confident of success than when he went to New York last Friday. "I am always confident," was his answer.

WIRE FROM ATLANTA SAID KIDNAPED GIRL WAS HERE

There was a report current in New York yesterday that for a short time promised an Atlanta end to the famous Dorothy Arnold kidnaping case.

The parents received a telegram from Atlanta to the effect that Dorothy was in this city, a guest at the Piedmont hotel. Just as the parents were beginning to find comfort in the hope the report was correct, another telegram came, from the man whose name was signed to the first wire, denying that he had sent the message.

The Arnolds refuse to give out the name of the man whose name was signed to the wires, and it was impossible to learn who sent the message.

Inquiry at the Piedmont hotel brought denial of the report that Miss Arnold had been at the hotel, or that anyone, in any way filling her description, had been there. The hotel authorities were also ignorant of who sent the wire.

The following dispatch gives the details of the cruel hoax perpetrated on the Arnold family:

"New York, January 29.—(Special.)—Among the 200 and odd letters and telegrams that were received on Saturday night and today from folks all over the country who think they have seen Dorothy Arnold, the missing girl, was a lettergram from Atlanta, Ga., which was received at the Arnold house this morning. The lettergram had been sent, as the signature seemed to indicate, by a man well known in Atlanta. It read:

"Your daughter's whereabouts known to me. Is your newspaper story authentic? If so, wire answer Piedmont hotel here."

This morning John S. Keith, who has charge of the investigation, used the long distance phone and talked to the man whose name was at the bottom of the message. He said somebody had been taking liberties with his name, because he had sent no message and knew nothing about Miss Arnold save what he had read.

"KILL JAPANESE," SHRIEKED THE MOB

Thousand Persons Take Part in Demonstration in New York.

New York, January 29.—A thousand men and women, marching down Broadway tonight behind a large anarchistic banner, brought out the police reserves, whose forcible arrest of the alleged leaders caused a small riot.

The parade followed a meeting in an East Side hall at which speakers had denounced the execution in Tokio last week of a dozen persons charged with plotting against the life of Japan's emperor.

It is alleged that the crowd was marching on to the Japanese consulate to make a further demonstration there, when Patrolman Reilly sighted the crowd rounding into Broadway.

According to the officer, the paraders filled the street for two blocks back, bearing a big red flag in their ranks. Men and women on the outside ranks were handing out circulars in Italian and Russian to the onlookers, and the paraders seemed to vie to outdo one another in shouting: "Kill the Japanese," could be heard in the babel.

The lone officer, Reilly, stepped in the path of the approaching mass and demanded if they had a permit to parade. As he did so the flag bearer tossed the red banner to another man and bolted through the crowd. Reilly was after him, and finally cornered the fugitive in the hallway of an office building.

The alleged flag-bearer gave his name as Benjamin Weinstein, a Russian tailor, of Brooklyn. The crowd became riotous when they learned of his capture, and threatened the police, who had now arrived in force. One woman who sought to snatch Weinstein away from the officer was arrested. She said she was Lillie Chessman, aged 23, a Russian dressmaker. The others take nwere Simon Friedman, aged 18, a Russian hair goods worker; Dominick Valentini, aged 47, an Italian silversmith, and Victor Flasseur, aged 22, a Swiss cook.

All were locked up after the officers had dispersed the crowd.

Supreme Court to Meet.

Montgomery, Ala., January 29.—(Special.)—The supreme court of Alabama will, on tomorrow, take up eighth division cases, to which a week of hard and steady work will be devoted. Counties in this division are Colbert, Franklin, Jackson, Lauderdale, Lawrence, Limestone, Madison, Marshall and Morgan. Second division cases will be taken up February 6, 1911, when all of the division will have been given a hearing, and when it will be retraced for the year.

PORTUGAL TO PAY DEPOSED MANUEL

Ex-King Gets Monthly Pension of $3,300 From Republic.

Lisbon, January 29.—The Diario de Noticias announces that the Portuguese government has decided to pay a monthly pension of $3,300 to the deposed King Manuel. A check for the months of October, November and December already have been sent to him.

Manuel II., the exiled king of Portugal, is now living with the Queen Mother Amelie at Wood Norton, Evesham, England, where he was obliged to accept the hospitality of the Duke of Orleans. He reached there last October from Gibraltar, where he sought British protection after being driven out of Portugal.

Since his arrival in England there have been many reports of the poverty-stricken condition of the former sovereign, whose debts in Portugal alone are estimated at more than $300,000. The importunities of creditors have been strong, and it was understood at one time that the new government of Portugal had determined to liquidate those of the obligations legally incurred.

Concerning the property in Portugal owned personally by Manuel and others of the royal family a decree issued a few months ago promised that a settlement would be made as soon as possible and that the legal representatives for the exiled royal family would be respected.

Recent dispatches from Lisbon said the British government intervened successfully with the Portuguese government on behalf of the depleted purse of the deposed king. Representatives from the foreign office at London set forth that the exiled monarch was possessed of means insufficient for his personal needs.

11 PRISONERS FREE ON PAROLE

Only Three Applications Are Turned Down.

Up to Date Eighteen Men, Who Lived in Lonesomeville, Have Been Given Another Chance to Make Good in the World.

After years passed in the federal prison in south Atlanta, eleven prisoners were yesterday released.

Under the recent provisions of the parole board system, which gives a convict an opportunity to go back into the world, from which the law exiled him, and to try again to make good, their freedom was awarded.

This is the second batch of prisoners to secure liberty by the parole route, seven in the first lot, eleven in the second. A number of other applications are still to be passed upon, and this number may be considerably increased.

Of all the applications so far presented to the attorney general for his signature, after favorable action had been taken by the parole board of the prison, only three have been turned down.

The fact that the men are at liberty, however, does not mean that this is a permanent gift. Arrangements have been made by which the conduct of every man is watched, and at any time the conditions of their parole are violated, they may be returned to complete their sentence. This holds good, of course, until the regular term of years for which they were sentenced has expired.

In the list of eleven, given freedom on Sunday, there were no men of great importance. Greene and Gaynor and Morse are still guests of Uncle Sam. The government, however, consistently refuses to give the names of those released, this being done in order to protect the men enjoying their liberty, and to shelter them from any humiliation as far as possible.

I have been asked by many people how I would plan and execute an advertising campaign if I were running a big store, so I will give my ideas on the subject here.

TAFT SPLITTING G. O. P. TO PIECES BY RECIPROCITY

Trade Agreement With Canada Has Stirred the Republican Leaders to Anger.

TAFT IS NOT CONCERNED BY PROTESTS OF LEADERS

President Believes He Is Right and Will Try to Force Action on Reciprocal Agreement Even If He Has to Call Extra Session---He Is Depending on Popular Support.

Washington, January 29.—Embarrassed is a mild word to define the predicament in which republican members of congress have found themselves since President Taft submitted his program for a reduction in the cost of living, through the medium of commercial reciprocity with Canada.

High protectionists, confident of the sympathy of the executive, have not hesitated to go to the white house with predictions that the party will be disrupted if the program is insisted upon. Insurgent republicans, many of whom have become unaccustomed to visit the white house at all, have been pursuing the policy of silence. While some of them are ready to admit that the proposed agreement is in line with their tariff arguments in the past, they fear to adopt it lest they bring upon their heads the wrath of agriculturists.

Taft Shows No Concern.

President Taft appears to be about the only one who is showing no concern about the situation. He is said to have met all arguments against the agreement with the determination to disregard mere political objections, whether they come from stand-patters or insurgents. He believes what he has recommended to be right, and he has made it clear that so long as he continues so to believe he cannot be dissuaded from using every force at his command that advances legislation to put the agreement into operation.

That President Taft realized fully what arguments would be advanced by protectionists against freedom of trade relation with Canada, is proved by the fact that not a single member of the ways and means committee of the house or of the finance committee of the senate was apprised in advance as to what articles would be affected by the treaty. His consultations were held exclusively with the government trade experts, and only such of those as were believed to be beyond political influence. In nothing that he has done since he has been president has Mr. Taft displayed so much independent spirit.

"Old Guard" Leaders in Dark.

Progressive republicans are deriving some comfort from the fact that Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon and numerous others of the "old guard" apparently were as much in the dark as anyone about the president's plans. The progressives admit that the situation is mystifying. They know they had not been called in during the negotiations with Canada's commercial representatives, and now they learn that the stand-patters were equally neglected.

The question which has arisen naturally is, "How can President Taft expect to bring about favorable action on the agreement without having the support of some faction of his own party in congress?"

Some want to know if Mr. Taft is depending wholly on the known democratic support for the program. Those who have taken the trouble to talk with the president about the matter are said to have been told that he counted upon the people generally, the masses who think he is trying to lower the cost of food, to create sentiment necessary to induce congress to act.

Talk of Extra Session.

The annual dinner of the Ohio Society is to be held in this city tomorrow night, and President Taft is to be one of the speakers.

It is expected he will take this occasion to say something about reciprocity. Political leaders are wondering if he will tell what he intends to do if congress fails to act on the agreement at the present session. There has been a great deal of talk of an extra session if the reciprocity legislation fails, and it is known that much of the talk was brought from the white house by men who enjoy confidential relations with the president.

The tariff board, the bureau of statistics and other bodies who are analyzing constantly the economic questions involved in the commerce of this country, are ready to fortify President Taft with any figures he may need in carrying on a campaign of education. These bureaus already have prepared a great deal of information bearing upon the relation of export trade to commercial reciprocity with Canada. It shows that neither country has any advantage in the markets of Europe. The United States and Canada can obtain equal prices for grains and other products of the soil, unless one or the other offers an article of less superior quality. It is recognized that the United States always has found a good market abroad for agricultural products, even wheat, in spite of the quality of the article grown in Canada.

Taft Preparing for Contest.

The preparation that is being made by the president for a contest with congress clearly shows that something more powerful than mere politics must be used to combat him. Yet the fight is beginning to loom up as a political issue. Some members of the senate and house who would be expected to

SIR ASTLEY COOPER, M. D.

Physician to the Queen of England, Buys Electro-Radio Outfit and Says the Science of Drugs Is Founded Upon Conjecture and Improved by Murder---Electricity the Remedy of Today.

Shall we throw drugs to the dogs? Has that science made no progress and are they all poisonous? "The Science of Drugs is founded upon conjecture and improved by murder," says one of the greatest physicians in the world today, Sir Astley Cooper, physician to Queen Alexandra, of England. Drugs do not cure one disease by producing another, asserts Dr. Martin Payne, professor in the New York University Medical college. "A mild course of drugs and mildly cutting a man's throat are synonymous terms," says Prof. Gillman, of the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons. "If every intelligent physician would dare speak his true sentiments they would all at least say use as limited amount of drugs as possible," writes Dr. Cooper in ordering this outfit for the queen.

My experience with the Electro-Radio has convinced me of the following facts: The negative and positive poles have certain peculiar powers both physical and therapeutical in which they are in diametrical opposition as the following comparative statement wil show: The Positive Pole is Acid Oxygen, will stop bleeding, sedative, hardens tissue, is an acid caustic, is a vaso-constrictor. The Negative Pole produces Hydrogen, Alkaline, increases bleeding, produces Hypersensitiveness, liquifies and disintegrates, is an alkaline caustic, is a vaso-dilator. Therefore the effects of Electro-Radio are:

1st. It is a powerful stimulant to every part of the body.

2nd. It acts as a sedative in soothing morbidly excited nervous action.

3rd. It aids and increases nutritive changes, both local and general.

4th. Its action as a tonic is marked and very powerful.

5th. It equalizes the circulation, thus reducing congestion and inflammation.

6th. It is strongly anti-spasmodic and anti-paralytic.

It is now acknowledged to be the only sure relief for paralysis, rheumatism, deafness, kidney, liver and stomach troubles, gall stones, appendicitis, and private diseases of men and women who are now cured without the horrible slash of the surgeon's knife. In fact, every case taken is under a positive guarantee to be cured. The offices will be open, beginning February 1, from 9 to 12, 2 to 4, and 7 to 8, for the free accommodation of callers, where competent experts will consult, examine and diagnose your case without one penny's cost to you. Go see them, bring your wife and children, and if possible enjoy the greatest gift to man, good health and happiness. Advanced Medical Science Institute, Suite 415, Austell building.

PLACE WHERE STRAUS DINNER WILL BE HELD JAN. 31 AND THE NOTABLE GUESTS INVITED TO BE PRESENT

It is expected that when President Taft delivers his address at the dinner to Nathan Straus, financier and philanthropist, at the Cafe Boulevard, New York city, on the evening of January 31, he will announce his views on new phases of the policies of his administration. Scores of other prominent men will be present, including ex-President Roosevelt, August Belmont, Andrew Carnegie, Jacob H. Schiff, Congressman Sulzer and William S. Bennet, Edward M. Shepard, etc. The banquet will be one of the most notable ever given in New York.

take the lead for the renomination of Mr. Taft in 1912, may now be found to be lukewarm in their support of him. If the president should deem it incumbent upon him to call an extra session of congress and submit the reciprocity agreement to the democrats of the next house, it is said that still others of the republican party may be alienated.

This phase of the situation was discussed by one of the president's friends today. He said that if Mr. Taft had given any thought to his political future in advocating the Canadian agreement, it had not been manifested in his conversations. At the same time this friend declared he believed the president had a great deal to gain, even in politics, by carrying on a fight to decrease the cost of living.

The introduction by Representative McCall, of Massachusetts, of a bill to carry out the terms of the Canadian agreement indicates that there will be little delay in bringing such a measure from the ways and means committee. A majority of the committee is known to favor the agreement.

Busy Week Confronts Congress.

Although it may be some time before the reciprocity question is discussed on the floor of either house, it entirely subordinates other subjects in corridor and cloak room gossip. Nevertheless, a busy week confronts both branches. The composite tariff board measure, embodying portions of the Dalzell and Longworth bill, under the special rule brought out of the rules committee, may be brought up tomorrow. The roll of the house will be called on Tuesday in order that members may answer "New Orleans" or "San Francisco" in expressing a preference as to which city shall hold an exposition in 1915 in celebration of the opening of the Panama canal. The proceedings is so unusual that it is likely to attract large crowds to the galleries. There is considerable bitterness between the supporters of the rival cities.

In the senate the Lorimer case, the resolution on the subject of direct vote for United States senators, and appropriation bills will be the order, with odd time taken up with the ship subsidy measure.

2,403 VIOLENT DEATHS IN NEW YORK LAST YEAR

There Were 108 Homicides by Shooting, Increase of Forty.

New York, January 29.—Violent deaths in New York during the year 1910 averaged nearly seven a day; a total of 2,403, or an increase of 186 over the previous year. The chief clerk in the coroner's office, in making public the report today, noted that there were 108 homicides by shooting.

"This increase of 40 over last year," he said, "indicated the urgent necessity of proper regulation of the indiscriminate sale and carrying of firearms."

Of the 79 persons arrested on charges of homicide by shooting, 38 were American born, 32 were Italians and 9 Chinese. Seven women were among those arrested in the cases.

Gas holds its own as the most popular method of suicide, the comparison for the year being: By gas, 142; shooting, 132; leaps from windows, 50; hanging, 36; poison, 23; cutting, 24; carbolic acid, 21; drowning, 9; leaps from trains 5. The total, 448, is noted as "practically the same as the previous year."

DIAZ HAS LOST ANOTHER TOWN

Mexicali, Just Over Border, Taken by Rebels.

Town Is on the Boundary Between California and Mexico---First Sign of Activity by Rebels on the West Coast of Mexico.

Mexicali, Lower California, Mexico, January 29.—Mexicali, the first border town in Mexico to be captured by rebels, was taken with little resistance early today. The only man killed was the jailer, who was shot when he refused to set free his prisoners.

The customs house was seized. Reinforcements are said to be flocking to the rebel standard from the surrounding country.

Move a Complete Surprise.

The capture of the town is the first sign of activity of the rebels on the western coast of Mexico. The move was a complete surprise.

Mexicali is a small town, inhabited chiefly by natives of Mexico. It is just across the border from the American city of Calexico, Cal. It is situated on the Imperial Valley branch line of the Southern Pacific railway, 41 miles south of Imperial Junction.

Two men were in command of the rebel invading party. Leyva appeared to be chief in command. His aid was Simon Barthold, a socialist agitator from California, known in Los Angeles and various coast cities.

Barthold and a party of eight men arrived from Holtville, Cal., last night and successfully smuggled a considerable amount of firearms across the border. They were joined during the night by the insurrectos from Mexicali and vicinity, and at daylight marched to the adobe jail, where seven prisoners were confined.

These prisoners were insurgents, who had been arrested on order of the Mexican government. A demand was made on the jailer for the release of the prisoners.

Jailer Shot Dead.

When he hesitated, a rifle in the hands of one of the rebels was thrust through the window and a shot rang out. The jailer fell dead. The keys to the cells were then taken and the prisoners were liberated.

Barthold and two of his men went to the barracks at the international line and captured the few men there without a struggle. Leyve then marched on the customs house and the sub-prefecture, which were taken without resistance.

During the forenoon the insurgents received accessions to their ranks from among the citizens of Mexicali and the native employees of the neighboring ranches.

The seizure of the customs house and border barracks is particularly important to the rebel movement in that it enables them to smuggle arms and ammunition across the line without restriction.

Under the direction of Assistant District Attorney Swing, of Imperial county, Sheriff Meadows this afternoon issued orders closing the port of entry at Calexico from Mexicali.

United States Troops Watch Border.

San Antonio, Texas, January 29.—The remaining six troops of the Third cavalry left here this morning for the Mexican border, and arrived at their stations tonight. Trook K went over the International and Great Northern railroad to Laredo, troop L, over the San Antonio and Arkansas Pass to San Fordyce, troop G went over the Southern Pacific railroad to Palvo, troop F to Marfo, troop H to Sanderson, troop E to Marathon.

Customs officers along the border have increased their force of mounted guards. Stanley W. Finch, chief examiner for the department of justice, will arrive here Tuesday to take charge of the secret service men operating in Texas.

Peace Fund Dignifies Movement.

(H. H. Windsor, in the February Popular Mechanics Magazine.)

The peace fund at the present moment appears to be chiefly instrumental as providing the movement to which it is dedicated with that power and dignity which inevitably attaches to a vast sum of money. The smartest man in the world, with the greatest invention of the age, if clad in rags and dirt, can walk the streets for months and tell his discovery to the winds; but let him appear in perfect dress and riding in an eight-thousand-dollar limousine, and the doors of the private offices of bank presidents swing open at his approach.

The time is not far distant when the cost of the military in peace will bankrupt the leading nations of Europe. Why not then syndicate the armed forces of the world under the authority of an international court, and aside from any question of morals, reduce the cost of keeping peace of one-fourth of what it is at present.

BETTER FEELING IN STOCK MARKET

Confidence Is Strong in Further Improvement.

Bond Division Again Exceeded Importance the Stock Division---Ease Maintained by the Money Markets---The New York City Bond Sale.

New York, January 29.—Developments in the financial situation last week went to confirm the favorable expectations previously held and to keep up confidence in the further progress of improvement. The stock market continued somewhat narrow and largely professional, but its function as a mirror of speculative sentiment went on in a normal manner. The fact that news of improvement brought stocks into the market for sale followed the inevitable rule at some stage of a speculative size. The volume of new buying encountered, and the absorptive power demonstrated by the market were accepted as showing the underlying speculative confidence.

The bond division at the stock exchange again exceeded in importance the stock division, but there also began to show the effects of the amount already accomplished.

The stiffening of the private discount rate in London had its effect in steadying the foreign exchange rate here. The rise in exchange was the more significant in view of the supply of bankers' bills drawn against foreign subscriptions to the New York city bond subscription, which were, however, below expectations.

Foreign Demand for Cotton.

There is no sign of a satisfaction of the foreign demand for our cotton which was so important a factor in international exchanges of last month. Reduction of the British bank rate from 4½ to 4 per cent, suggested some ease in the monetary tension to that center.

That ease was maintained in the New York money market directs attention to the part played in this result by the quiet business conditions in the country, from which a lessened borrowing demand follows. Increased investment demand for securities so far as it grows out of this, must be balanced against the decline in profitable activities argued by the stagnant demand for money as an influence for progress.

Reports of reviving demand for some grades of steel products and the advance in wire had a cheering sentimental effect in the promise of correction of quiet trade conditions. The growing promise of the cotton crop shown by the census bureau's return of cotton ginned made another important item toward the remedy of defects in recent conditions.

New York City Bond Sale.

The success of the New York city bond sale had enough qualifying circumstances to temper its good effect. The price realized, which reached 100,-904, confirmed fully the faith in the improvement in investment demand from capital since last fall. Applications for more than five times the $60,000,000 offered, the issue being the largest in the history in the city, gives increased force to the demonstration. At the same time the average price for the allotment indicates a higher interest basis than the preceding 4½ per cent issued by the city in March of 1910, or than the four next preceding issues from November, 1908, to December, 1909. Would-be borrowers, including the railroads, are inclined to read in the outcome a necessity for submitting to relatively high interest rates.

DEATH IS BELCHED BY VOLCANO TAAL

Eruption Accompanied by Seismic Jars of Long Duration.

Manila, January 29.—Observers sent out by the bureau of science to investigate the eruptions of the volcano Taal have telegraphed in a report that a terrific eruption occurred at 2 o'clock in the morning simultaneously with two prolonged earthquakes. The island on which the volcano is located sank 5 feet. A heavy mud shower fell and then for half an hour hot ashes.

The observatory at Manila corroborated the report of the earthquake and adds that a remarkable electrical storm continued for two hours with deafening thunder within the smoke and gas umbrellas above the volcano. Lava and stones were belched 300 feet. The constabulary assisted the panic-stricken natives. One cavalryman was killed by the wreck of a house on the lake shore. Following the sinking of the island a wave 4 feet high swept over the lake shore for a radius of a mile, destroying hundreds of bamboo shacks. Those, however, had been evacuated on account of the early eruptions, which occurred yesterday morning.

The terrific explosions in the air prostrated many of the constabulary. The observatory here reports a total of 332 shocks.

It is believed that the towns of Taal and Lemery have been considerably damaged by mud and stones. Talisay is partly submerged and all the crops ruined.

James A. Randall.

Detroit, Mich., January 29.—James A. Randall, lawyer, legislator and newspaper editor, died at his home in this city today after an illness of more than two years. He was born in 1848. Mr. Randall founded The Buffalo Times, and it is stated that a notice posted, at his instance in the news room of that paper—"Boom Grover Cleveland for governor of New York state"—paved the way for Mr. Cleveland to the presidency.

COTTON BULLS PLAN CAMPAIGN

To Get Control of the May Option.

It Is Expected That the Bull Clique Will Begin Operations This Week---Weather Map Will Come In for More Attention.

New Orleans, January 29.—With the last census report of the season out of the way and the size of the commercial crop a matter of no great dispute, the cotton trade is now squarely facing the question of whether there is to be a campaign for a rise in the spring and summer months or not.

Bull Clique in May.

For some time past there have been many rumors that a strong bull clique is in control of the May delivery in this market, but this story has been laughed down because it is altogether too early to talk abut any one controlling May. The rumor persists, however, that there will be a campaign to begin with the May option. If there is any truth in this, it ought to come to light this week for the January position will be a thing of the past and February being as usual a dead month, interest is necessarily thrown into March and May.

There has been much transferring of the long interest from January to March. With January liquidated these two months will command most attention and it ought not be hard to detect signs of any unusual trading in either position.

The Weather Map.

The weather map now is bound to come in for more attention than has been paid it for several months. Should rain fall in the west, the bears will try to make it a feature of general interest in an attempt to rob the statistical position of some of the attention being paid it. According to the best information coming into this market there is a large area of important cotton-producing country in Texas and Oklahoma that has not received anything like an adequate winter rainfall, although light rains have been reported here and there in both states for some time. This, it is claimed, has caused backward preparations for the new crop in some sections, and is against the success of the next crop since it is the general idea that winter rains are conserved in the soil, while spring and summer rains are quickly evaporated.

Early Rain Needed.

The claim of the bulls is that unless rains fall soon the cotton plant over a large area will suffer for moisture during every dry spell of the season. Unless rains fall soon in a general way, the droughty conditions in the west will be a market feature of great importance.

The statistics of the coming week will be eagerly watched for, because the bulls will hope for a repetition of last week's bullish showing, while the bears will look for a turn in their favor on the theory that a very bullish weekly statement is likely to be followed by a disappointing statement the next week. Stocks of cotton will command much attention and should they shrink as they have this last week, investment buying will be stimulated

WHILE HER HUSBAND WHIPS MAN WITH WHOM SHE FLED, YOUNG WIFE SLIPPED AWAY

Charleston, S. C., January 29.—After a chase which has lasted for over two weeks, and in which detectives were employed, A. S. Lane, a wealthy Chicago contractor, this morning discovered his young wife registered at a local hotel as the wife of D. Monroe, aged 60, with whom she is alleged to have eloped. Monroe was an employee in Lane's firm, and had recently been paid $10,000 by the concern for work done.

Following the refusal of the local chief of police to arrest the couple in their room at the hotel, Lane followed them in a hack to the depot, where they were to have taken the train for Jacksonville. He attacked Monroe with a small club, inflicting painful injuries. During the melee, Mrs Lane left the buggy and has not been seen since.

Both Lane and Monroe were arrested for fighting, and subsequently released on deposit of $25 bail. Lane is said to have left tonight for Jacksonville on the Clyde liner Arapahoe. No trace of Mrs. Lane or Monroe could be found at any of the local hotels or lodging houses.

No intimation of a probable divorce proceedings was made by Lane, who simply stated that he had determined to catch the runaway couple if it cost him $100,000. While in police headquarters Lane said to Monroe: "If I had had a good crack at you, I would have killed you."

"WHITE MAN'S HOPE" BACKED BY RICH OKLAHOMA BANKER

Tulsa, Okla., January 29.—Announcement is made today that the seven-year contract held by William Stone, of Sapulpa, as manager for Carl Morris, pugilist heralded as the "White Man's Hope," has been purchased by Frank B. Ufer, a wealthy banker and oil man of Tulsa. The consideration is said to have been $25,000. Elaborate training quarters are to be fitted up here for Morris. Tonight dispatches were sent to Joe Choynski and Bob Armstrong asking if they would be available as trainers for the Oklahoma man. Billy Delaney is also mentioned as a possible director of the Tulsa training camp.

MORTUARY

Mrs. Vinie Hagin, Statesboro.

Statesboro, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—The funeral of Mrs. Vinie Hagin was held from the Primitive Baptist church in Statesboro in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives of the family. "The American Shotgun."

One of the newest and best publications put on the market is "The American Shotgun," by Charles Askins, published by Outing Publishing ins, published by Outing Publishing Company, 315 Fifth avenue, New York.

Now, if ever, the sportsman's appetite should be keen for just such a book as this. During the last generation nothing of note on shotguns has been issued from the American press in book form. The author is a strong believer in American guns. He holds that we cannot only build a better gun for the money than any other country, but as good a weapon as can be purchased anywhere for any amount of money.

Care has been taken in this book not to give special emphasis to any make of arms, but all our prominent gun manufacturers will be found well represented in the illustrations, many of the latter are from photographs taken expressly for this book, and never before appearing in print.

Mr. Askins deals almost exclusively with present day arms. He shows a consideration for his readers that will not keep them "cracking" at the ancient arquebus before getting at the kernel of the modern breech-loader.

Part two of this volume is given over to "The Art of Wing-Shooting." The system of wing-shooting set forth by the author is his own and what it says will add to the sum of what has been said before.

If this book is anything it is practical, and where theories have been advanced they have been proved in practice or cast aside. This book is especially adapted for beginner and expert alike. Every important point is reinforced by photographs and proofs. The price is $2 net.

SENATOR BEVERIDGE FAVORS RECIPROCITY

He Commends the Agreement Reached With Canada.

Washington, January 29.—Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, in a statement issued tonight, commended the reciprocity agreement with Canada submitted to congress by the president and praised President Taft's message urging its ratification.

"Every believer in Canadian reciprocity," said Senator Beveridge, "must applaud the thoroughly admirable message of the president to congress, transmitting to that body the proposed agreement. That message is powerful and unanswerable from any point of view.

"Whatever objection anybody raises to any of the items of the agreement itself, every believer in closer trade relations with Canada must and will earnestly agree with the presentation of the policy in that historic message."

Getting Back to the Soil.

(E. P. Powell in February Outing.)

Gardening as a rule is the easiest hold for ordinary city people. There are not so many secrets about growing beets, carrots, potatoes and beans as there are about growing plums and apples and cherries. Any good agricultural paper will carry you through your experiments and lead you safely to success. There is, of course, much more to gardening than appears on the surface, but you can learn most of it as you move on. You have to make your soil, as well as cultivate your plants.

You must not count on large returns until you have planted considerable experience as well as seeds, but with the worst sort of blundering you can hardly fail to get enough vegetables for home consumption the first year; the waste can go to your cow and horse.

What you can do will be something like this: From a garden five rods square get your table corn in succession from July to September. You will from the same field get plenty of green peas during the same period. For string beans and shell beans you will need another strip about one rod by four or five. Potatoes will call for a third strip six rods by four, and good mellow soil it must be to give you good returns. Now when you come to planting for market, multiply the strips according to the amount of vegetables you are prepared to truck and sell.

"STEAM ROLLER" TO WIN FOR TAFT

In G. O. P. National Convention in 1912.

The Republican National Committee Will Decide Who Shall Be Nominated, and Committee Is for Taft--Southern Members Favor President

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, January 29.—(Special.) The fifty-three members of the republican national committee, or a majority of them, will determine who will be named as the party's candidate for president in 1912, and they will be for the renomination of President Taft.

The "steam roller" that operated so smoothly and so effectively at the Chicago convention in 1908 will be in good running order next year, and it can be used again just as relentlessly to crush out all opposition to Taft.

This is the answer to the organization of the National Progressive Republican League, with the avowed purpose of controlling the next republican national convention, and the National Progressive Federation, which has for its object the forcing of the nomination of progressive presidential candidates by both the great parties. These organizations may fight to the last ditch, so far as the republican convention is concerned, and save in a comparatively few states and districts where they are in control of the party machinery, the best they can do will be to elect contesting delegates to the national convention.

National Committee Will Control.

The republican national committee will decide all contests, and make up the temporary roll of the convention. The delegates seated on the temporary roll will make the permanent roll, which will determine the presidential nomination. With a very few exceptions the national committee is made up of men who have nothing in common with the progressives, and who may be relied on to stand by President Taft and the administration forces in any and all emergencies.

Twenty-seven votes will be needed to control the committee and seat the delegates against whom the progressives may bring contests. On a test of this kind the administration leaders say that not over four or five national committeemen would stand with the progressives, and the Taft forces would have the situation absolutely in their own hands.

Presumably contests over the seating of delegates are settled on their merits. In practical politics, those who have the power use it. In such contests it is an easy matter to make out a sufficently strong case to justify the majority of the committee in seating any set of delegates it may favor. At the Chicago convention the Taft delegates were seated in almost every instance, although the votes were not needed. There was a mild howl about the use of arbitrary machine tactics, but the "steam roller" moved straight ahead, and its use was justified on the grounds that party discipline made it imperative that it be demonstrated that the bringing of contests against delegates holding the regular credentials would not be encouraged or even tolerated.

A few weeks ago, before it was suspected that the progressives were planning to come out into the open in a fight for control of the next national convention, President Taft and his friends were urged to have the national committee meet to select a new chairman. This idea originated with the opposition to Postmaster General Frank M. Hitchcock, who is still the de facto chairman of the national committee, although he named Committeeman Hill, of Maine, as acting chairman at the time he entered the cabinet. It was urged that President Taft's interests, and the general party welfare, would be best conserved by the election of a new chairman.

Hitchcock's Bluff Not Called.

Representative John W. Weeks, of Massachusetts, was one of the men suggested for the chairmanship. Artur I. Vorys, national committeeman from Ohio, who conducted the Taft preliminary campaign, was another. At the time it was understood that President Taft was inclined to favor the suggestion, and for several days there was much talk on the subject. Suddenly it was announced authoritatively that the president and his friends had no thought of calling the committee together to choose a new chairman.

The explanation of this sudden decision was slow in coming, but when it came it was to the effect that Postmaster General Hitchcock, whose ways are almost as scrutable as Providence, had caused the suggestion to reach the president and his close friends that it was possible, not to say exceedingly probable, that if the committee were called together, it would be found that a majority of the members would not stand with the Taft forces in selecting a new chairman. In short, there was a discreet hint that Mr. Hitchcock, not President Taft, could command the support of a majority of the committee.

Around the poker table this would be characterized as a "bluff." Mr. Hitchcock simply pushed all his checks to the center of the table, and waited for someone to "call." He may have had a hand that justified the play, and again he may not. Now that it is all over, and the bluff was not called, the friends of the president are certain that Mr. Hitchcock did not have the hand. They say they have checked up the committee and have found that at the very least, thirty-one of the fifty-three members would have stood by the president in spite of anything that Mr. Hitchcock might have done.

Be that as it may, the issue did not come, and with a fight in prospect from the progressives, the administration leaders are quick to declare that such an issue will never come. Hitchcock has nothing in common with the progressives, and none of his personal friends on the committee would stand with the progressives as against the administration.

Southern Members for Taft.

Every southern member of the committee, with a single possible exception, will stand with the administration. The south is always with the powers that be—patronage does that. The possible exception is Colonel Cecil Lyon, of Texas, who holds the republican party of the Lone Star State in the hollow of his hand—has had it incorporated, in fact, and has the articles of incorporation, the rules and by-laws and the seal all locked up in his private safe. Colonel Lyon is not a Taft enthusiast. He was brought into line for Taft in 1908 by his great and good friend, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, and in 1912 Colonel Lyon will do about as he "blank pleases," or as Colonel Roosevelt pleases.

Colonel Lyon has been in Washington this week. His utterances on politics have been more or less cryptic, but he has made it clear that he is not on the Taft bandwagon. In reply to the direct question whether the Texas delegation would be solid for Taft in the 1912 convention, he said: "The Texas delegation will be s[illegible]. I'll guarantee that, but that is as I will go."

This Texan believes that Roosevelt can do what Professor James J. Jeffries could not do—come back. If by any chance the progressives should make Roosevelt their candidate in 1912, Lyon will be with them until the infernal regions freeze over—that's the kind of Roosevelt man he is.

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, one of the progressive leaders, but one who did not sign the declaration of principles of the newly-organized league, is a member of the national committee, and his vote would not be counted on by the Taft forces.

That is about the extent of the positive strength of the progressives in the committee. From progressive Kansas David W. Mulvane, a regular of regulars, is the national committeeman. From Wisconsin there is an anti-La Follette man on the committee. Minnesota, another progressive stronghold, is represented by Frank B. Kellogg, Taft's personal friend and the administration's "trust-buster." Ernest E. Hart, an old-time stand-patter, represents Iowa, where Senator Cummins holds forth. Restive Nebraskans must hail Victor Rosewater as their national committeeman, and Rosewater is a staunch Taft supporter. California, which has recently manifested decided progressive tendencies, is represented by George W. Knight, who knows allegiance only to the regulars. And so the personnel of the entire committee may be sifted without discovering a ray of hope for the progressives.

Easy to Bring Contests.

It will be an easy matter for the progressives to bring contesting delegates from all the southern states, but it will be still easier for the administration forces to use the "steam roller" and decline to seat a single one of them. Pushed to the limit, the regulars might even decline to seat progressive delegates from middle west and western states, where they hold the official credentials, providing contests were brought by the friends of the administration.

On the basis of the representation in the last republican national convention there will be about 980 delegates in the convention of 1912. Control of 500 delegates will insure President Taft's renomination. Here the necessary votes, with plenty to spare, will come from, according to the figures of President Taft's friends:

Alabama, 22; Arkansas, 18; Georgia, 26; Mississippi, 20; North Carolina, 24; South Carolina, 18; Tennessee, 24; Virginia, 24; Florida, 10; Kentucky, 22; Oklahoma, 14; Maryland, 16; West Virginia, 14; Maine, 12; Massachusetts, 33; Vermont, 8; Connecticut, 14; Rhode Island, 8; New York, 73; New Jersey, 24; Pennsylvania, 64; Ohio, 46; Indiana, 30; Illinois, 54; Missouri, 36. Total, 712.

This does not take into account any of the so-called progressive states such as Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas, and western and northwestern states where the delegations are small, but most of which are claimed confidently for Taft.

These figures constitute in effect the administration's challenge to the progressives if the newly formed league is to make war on President Taft. The president's friends are anxious that it be understood that they are not inviting such a war, but, on the other hand, they are not running away from it. They merely desire to make it clear at the beginning that there can be but one result of such a fight.

PRESIDENT TAFT WORKING WITH CANADA TO REDUCE PRESENT HIGH COST OF LIVING

The new reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada as regards the tariff on various foods and manufactures will, it is calculated by the administration, operate to reduce the present high cost of living. Secretary of State Philander C. Knox and the Canadian premier, Sir Wilfred Laurier, have directed the negotiations for their respective governments. Frankly basing his argument upon the necessity of fitting the tariff to the problem of the increasing cost of living, President Taft sent a special message to congress urging the adoption of the agreement, which does not take the usual form of a treaty, but is in that of bills which may be enacted into law by the majority votes of congress and parliament and the customary executive approval. "Excluding the element of transportation," President Taft declared, "the price of staple food products is much the same the world over, and the recent increase has been the result of a world-wide cause. But a source of supply as near as Canada would certainly help to prevent speculative fluctuations, would steady local price movements and would postpone the effect of a further world increase in the price of leading commodities entering into the cost of living if that be inevitable." Ninety-one per cent of the Canadian goods imported into the United States are affected by the changes included in the agreement. On the free list are put wheat and other grains, dairy products, fresh fruits and vegetables, fish of all kinds, eggs and poultry and cattle, sheep and other live animals. Mutual reduced rates are provided for fresh meats, canned meats, bacon and hams, canned vegetables, flour, cereal preparations and partially manufactured foodstuffs, while agricultural implements are reduced by Canada to the United States, and coal and iron ore are put upon much lower duties. The intention of the commissioners to remove all duties on print paper and wood pulp are affected so far as was allowed by the limitations placed on the Dominion government by the laws of the provinces. At Ottawa the agreement was received in parliament with cheers. At Washington there was evidence that if it should not be ratified by this congress President Taft would call the new one in extraordinary session to deal with it.

IRISH PARTY APPEALS FOR CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Recent Elections Strained the Financial Resources to Limit.

Dublin, January 29.—The annual appeal of the trustees of the Irish party for campaign funds, which has just been issued, says the recent elections and the fact that the party had to fight not only the powerful unionist party, but also Irish factionists, strained its financial resources to the uttermost. The elections, it continues, were the most expensive for 30 years and the cost was mainly defrayed by the ever-generous kinsmen in America and concludes: "Now that victory is within sight it is more than ever necessary for all the friends of Ireland to support the cause."

FIDELITY OFFICIALS ARRIVE IN ATLANTA

Many of the officials of the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Company, who will hold a meeting at the Piedmont hotel today and Tuesday, arrived in Atlanta Saturday, and are stopping at the Piedmont. Among the officials who arrived was President J. R. Blount, of Baltimore, who will preside over the meeting of the officials from Florida and Georgia.

One of the features of the convention will be a banquet, which will be held on the night of January 31.

FOUNDING OF MOBILE BI-CENTENNIAL FEB. 26

Mobile, Ala., January 29.—At a meeting of the Catholic priests of Mobile, called by Right Rev. Bishop Allen, plans were considered for the Catholic celebration of the bi-centennial of the founding of Mobile on February 26.

His eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, has promised to preside on that day, in the cathedral, a solemn pontifical mass of thanksgiving, which will be sung by Right Rev. Bishop Shaw, a native of Mobile. Archbishop Blenk, of New Orleans, will be present. This historical sermon apropos of the foundation will be delivered by the Rev. E. C. De La Moriniere, S. J.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT TO SUCCEED EARL GREY

As Governor General of the Dominion of Canada.

London, January 29.—It is officially announced that the Duke of Connaught will succeed Earl Grey in September as governor general of Canada. He will hold the appointment for two years and that period may be extended.

Various reports have been current, from time to time, particularly from Canadian sources, that the Duke of Connaught would not be the next governor general of Canada, although on the original announcement of his appointment, shortly after the death of King Edward, it was officially stated that it had been the wish of the king that the Duke of Connaught, his brother, should go to Canada as governor general.

A late dispatch from London reported that the duke would be appointed regent during the absence of King George in India for the coronation durbar. Such an appointment, it was believed, would serve to delay the duke's replacing Earl Grey.

BARTOW JURY FAVORS MARKING OF ROADS

Recommended That Signs Be Posted at Cross-Roads and Junctions.

Cartersville, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—The Bartow county grand jury which returned its presentments to the superior court yesterday afternoon, recommended that all the cross-roads and junctions in the county be marked with signs pointing the direction, and that mile posts showing the distance on all roads to and from the county seat and important towns be immediately put up.

Among other improvements recommended by the grand jury were several underpasses and overhead crossings along the railroads traversing the county, where dangerous crossings are now maintained.

Body of Colonel Russell.

POWER TO RETURN TO THE SPEAKER

Committee on Committees Plan Is Doomed.

It Has Caused Confusion, and Will Not Survive Next Congress---Champ Clark Admits Reform Won't Last---14 Men Exercising Power of Speaker.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, January 29.—(Special.) The committee on committees reform will not survive the next congress is the general prediction here. Confusion bordering on chaos has followed the change in the plan of naming committees of the house. This was emphasized by the meeting last Friday night of the fourteen democrats who are to be the appointing powers in the next house.

Champ Clark, the newly-chosen democratic speaker, who favored the change, and even urged the caucus to adopt it, has admitted the belief that it will be only temporary. The country was demanding it, and, to be consistent, the democrats had to try the experiment, according to Representative Clark. But that it will prove unsatisfactory, he also believes.

The experiment was tried once before in the early days of the republic, as recalled by Woodrow Wilson in a recent historical volume, but it was soon abandoned.

Clark Seems to Be Longheaded.

The mental reservation Mr. Clark had in mind saves him from the imputation that he was satisfied with a shadow when he had reason to expect some substance; that he supinely submitted to being deprived of all his powers and privileges as speaker, when by standing firm he could have brought the house to his way of thinking. He now appears in the light of being longerheaded and thinking farther ahead than his critics admitted.

But it is certain that the powers of the speaker in the sixty-second congress will be exercised by fourteen men, one of whom is Representative Brantley, of Georgia. Members of the house are now on the anxious bench to know what will be their chances before this new appointing power. Even men who now hold places on important committees are not entirely satisfied that they will retain these positions. The ranking minority members on most of the big committees are now southern members. Under the usual custom they would be entitled to the chairmanships. That this rule will not be followed is practically conceded. The north and west are demanding recognition, and reminding southern democrats that national success cannot be secured without their aid.

Tug of War Is On.

A tug of war is now on for the chairmanship of the appropriations committee between Fitzgerald, of New York, and Burleson, of Texas. The former is now the ranking minority member. Men who have counted upon other chairmanships are in an agony of suspense.

A number of democrats are vigorously opposed to the committee on committees idea and would have fought against it but for the statement of Champ Clark to the caucus. His later admission of the ephemeral nature of the change has thrown a new light on the situation.

When the slates are made up, even with the majority memberships of the big committees increased to twenty-one, there will be a number of disappointed and disaffected democrats, who will immediately begin clamoring for a change to the old custom. That it will follow, Speaker-elect Clark believes.

BESSIE TIFT CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED IN MACON

Baptists Inaugurate Movement to Raise Large Endowment.

Brown House, Macon, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—Results of a most telling character are promised during the week from the concerted effort made in all the Baptist churches of Macon to bring Bessie Tift college endowment into the good graces of the people at the morning services today.

Dr. W. L. Pickard, of Savannah, spoke to large congregations, both morning and evening, at the First Baptist church. Marked interest was manifested. He devoted himself to a presentation of the value of culture and training for the young woman.

Rev. A. Chamblee preached at the Vineville Baptist church in the morning to other fully as enthusiastic Baptists.

Rev. R. A. Lansdell was heard at Tattnall Square Baptist church. Dr. John G. Harrison, of Mercer University, preached at the Second Baptist church. Rev. J. G. Hunt preached at the East Macon Baptist church in the morning. Dr. W. L. Cutts was enthusiastically received at the Tabernacle Baptist church, while Rev. J. B. Holley delivered a strong sermon at Mabel White church.

No donations were asked during Sunday. Chairman Jessup, of the local campaign committee, announced his helpers, and called attention to the opening up of headquarters in charge of Rev. T. W. Callaway, at 365 Second street.

UNSEASONABLE WEATHER TO RUIN LE CONTE PEARS

Thomas County Fruit Growers Fear a Hard February.

Thomasville, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—The growers of LeConte pears are getting very uneasy for fear a hard cold may come along in February and injure the trees very badly.

The springlike weather of the past few weeks has caused the sap to rise very rapidly in the trees and a severe cold would probably give a black eye to the crop this year.

The shipping of LeConte pears has had a great revival in this section during the past few years and has brought much money to the growers and shippers, so that the loss of the crop this year would be a very serious calamity to many.

WITH AID OF LITTLE RED OX NEGRO BECOMES LAND OWNER

Thomasville, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—With only the help of a little red ox to do his plowing, hauling and everything else of the kind, Henry Mitchell, a negro, living near Pavo, in this county, has in five years paid every cent with interest that he owed for fifty acres of good Thomas county land and is now the owner both of that and a neat dwelling house, which he has built on the land.

Starting out with practically nothing, he has, by hard labor, done what very few could accomplish and is an example of industry to both white and colored.

HAS CARTERSVILLE BECOME DUMPING PLACE FOR HOBOES?

Cartersville, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—Is Cartersville the dumping place for hoboes? And is it right for man to be locked in a box car in Kentucky and brought to Cartersville to be turned over to the officers? are two questions that have been so freely asked in this city within the past few days, that the citizens have become greatly aroused over what is popularly said to be a bad condition of affairs.

The arrest, and imprisonment of four Russian Poles in the Bartow county chain gang, one of whom was hurt by a fellow prisoner recently, and the story they told of how they were locked in a car in Tennessee and brought to Cartersville, where they found officers had been notified by the railroad officials to meet them, together with the story of six other prisoners at the convict camp who claimed to have been locked in a car six miles south of Cincinnati and brought to this city to be arrested, caused an investigation to be made, which resulted in the information that in the city court of Cartersville alone there have been arraigned no fewer than forty-four men and boys charged with the offence of "hoboing."

The citizens of Cartersville and Bartow county are aroused over the matter, and indignation is expressed that Cartersville should be made the dumping place for tramps.

HALL COUNTY TO THE FRONT ON QUESTION OF GOOD ROADS

Gainesville, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—Hall county is coming to the front in good road construction if the action of the grand jury is taken to account.

In its annual presentment the grand jury approved the working of convicts on the roads, and also suggested that permanent work be done.

The following special presentment is of interest:

"We understand that our county commissioners contemplate working the convicts on the public roads and we approve of it. We hope our commissioners will find that our finances will admit of it, and that permanent work may be continued in the future. We have confidence in our county commissioners, and believe they can obtain such results from working convicts on the public roads the ensuing year that will enable them to know that the work can be continued by a small tax levy."

EBEN B. BROWN DIES AT RIPE AGE

He Is the Father of Dr. E. C. Brown, Well-Known Druggist.

Weakened by the infirmities of old age, Eben B. Brown, confederate veteran, and for thirty-five years a resident of Atlanta, died at 9:30 o'clock last night at the home of his son, Dr. E. C. Brown, 192 Capitol avenue, the popular druggist of the firm of Brown & Allen.

Mr. Brown was in his 80th year, and had been confined for the past year on account of feebleness. Since a month ago he had been exceedingly weak.

Mr. Brown was born and reared in Washington county. He served throughout the civil war, participating in the seven days' fight near Richmond. His wife was at his bedside, and besides Dr. Brown, there is another son, W. T. Brown, of Hapeville, and the following daughters: Mrs. J. M. Bloodworth, of Cincinnati; Mrs. H. Clark Hunt, Mrs. Albert Marbut, Mrs. J. T. Hubbard and Miss Elizabeth Brown, all of Atlanta. In earlier life Mr. Brown was in the hardware business at Macon.

CORDELE'S NEW MAYOR GETS SALARY RAISE

Chamber of Commerce Likely to Add $300 to Amount Paid by the City.

Cordele, Ga., January 29.—(Special.) Council has fixed the salary of the mayor at $900, which is nearer commensurate with the work to be performed.

The chamber of commerce may possibly add $300, making $1,200 for the mayor, who is secretary and active man of that body.

Mayor Dorris will now devote the major portion of his time in conducting the affairs of the city as mayor and promoting the work mapped out by the chamber of commerce as secretary.

COSTER UNDER KNIFE.

Brooklyn Fighter Is Operated On for Appendicitis.

New York, January 29.—Joe Coster, the Brooklyn featherweight fighter, who recently earned a popular decision over Abe Attell in a ten-round fight here, was operated on late Saturday night in a Brooklyn hospital for appendicitis. His condition is said to be serious.

Coster was in training for a fight with Tommy O'Toole before Jack O'Brien's new club in Philadelphia, February 8, and also was under engagement to box "Knockout" Brown before the Fairmont club here, February 14.

PLAGUE HORRORS CAUSE BIG STRIKE

8,000 Idle Workmen Complicate Situation at Harbin.

Harbin, Manchuria, January 29.—Added to the horrors of the plague, 8,000 Russian workmen on the Eastern Chinese railway, fearing the disease, have gone on strike because the administration refused to dismiss 1,500 Chinese laborers and provide passes to enable the families of the Russians to return to their own country. The strikers have been paid off and will, with their families, be evicted from their dwellings.

Troops have been called out and have been stationed all along the line to protect the Chineese.

Eight thousand Russian workmen without homes and with infinite similar resources, are likely to prove a source of grave danger, and it is probable that additional troops will have to be provided before long.

There has been no let-up in the spread of the plague. During the last 48 hours forty deaths were reported in Harbin alone, and probably there were many others that were not reported. In the same period, 150 Chinese died in Fu[illegible]an, a suburb of the city.

It's one thing for congress to "lay out the work" and another to work up to it.

Speaker Cannon says he has learned to take the world as it comes. A man with a maul in his hands can always do that.

However, if Mr. Kern, of Indiana, talks through his whiskers, his voice may be lost before it reaches The Congressional Record.

The loyal friends of Senator Lorimer should have monuments later on. But the trouble would be that the monuments would recall Senator Lorimer.

The Baltimore Evening Sun says "the mention of Harmon's name meets with a responsive heart-throb in Dixie because it sounds so much like 'Hominy.'"

Now, if they will be content to let Mr. Roosevelt remain on the lecture platform all may be well. But there will be trouble when the platforms take on a political complexion.

Since the big democratic banquet even the Baltimore poets have become harmonious. One chants a Dixie song in this measure:

"Dear dream of Dixie, my heart knows
the riddle,
The red cheeks of rose and the tune of the fiddle.
Dear dream of Dixie,
Up, heart, and away,
To meet in her valleys
The loved lips of May."

They are doing great work for good roads in Missouri. The following incident is only one of many given by the Kansas City Star:

"Mr. Williams, a road engineer, in an effort to improve the roads, has hit upon the plan of giving a road drag free to every farmer who makes application for one. And if the farmer doesn't use the drag Williams takes it away from him and gives it to someone who will. The arrangement has resulted in a great improvement of the roads, it is said."

REFORMING ATLANTA'S FINANCIAL SYSTEM.

About the most important issue in Atlanta today is that of municipal finances.

The problem is to make income meet the legitimate needs of expenditure.

The fact that we have, from year to year, increasingly failed to effect that conjunction does not need to be elaborately argued in its presence or its effects.

It is back of all the municipality's troubles, from inability to properly compensate the school teachers to our insufficient equipment for attacking the death rate.

The tax committee of council, of which Judge John S. Candler is chairman, is soon to grapple with the problem, admittedly one of delicate and baffling intricacies.

What is to be the solution? It is as yet too early to even hazard a detailed prediction, but much is to be gained by studying the manner in which other municipalities are striving to meet this issue, which is the civic bete noir of municipalities everywhere.

It happens that at this particular moment Greater New York is wrestling with the tax problem at very much the same angle occupied by Atlanta. There, as here, the cry is for "equalization," with the difference that in New York a practical effort is being made to enforce equalization.

Is simply taxes the citizen upon what he is worth, minus what he owes.

If that formula does not get to the foundation of justice and equality in taxation, it would be needless to seek for another one.

By its terms, every man is placed on the same plane. The one chance of failure lies in effective or corrupt enforcement, and will be possible under any system until the dawn of the millennium.

The New York plan goes farther. If there is cause to suspect that the citizen is making inadequate returns, or that the value he places upon his holdings is less than just, it is within the power of the authorities to probe his statements and readjust the assessment, if that is found necessary.

In the consideration of general plans for revising Atlanta's system of taxation, the committee could, with profit, study the New York plan.

Another phase of the local situation that offers a rich field for inquiry is the presence here of a large body of non-taxpayers, who get the benefit of the city's schools, fire protection, water and other facilities virtually without contributing to their upkeep.

Whether this class is to be reached by a more rigid combing of the city's tax lists, or by the raising and ENFORCEMENT of the poll tax, are questions to be determined. Certainly, if all the people in this city getting the benefit of municipal facilities for practically nothing were forced to do their part, the deficit we now face would shrink.

The entire question is one demanding the highest order of ability and patriotism.

SQUALLS AHEAD FOR THE DEMAGOGUE.

The most important trend in the past quarter-century history of American politics is the crystallizing effort to bring government close to the people; and the predominant characteristic in the movement is the wonderful awakening of the average citizen, in whatever walk of life his endeavors are directed.

A recent issue of Leslie's Weekly touches, as follows, one phase of the situation, but exhibits scarcely sufficient comprehensiveness:

Every worker in the shop is in business for himself. He watches the signs of prosperity and of depression as eagerly as the merchant, the manufacturer, or the banker does. If the business man wants sound money and a 100-cent dollar and protection against the competition of cheaper labor and capital abroad, so does the workingman want all and every one of these things. He is making it his business to find out which political party stands ready to give it to him. Let demagogues and muckrakers take notice.

The workingman is not the only keen watcher of our day.

The farmer is watching, pondering, weighing, rejecting, demanding with a whole-heartedness and a skepticism that gives strange and premonitory thrills to the politician.

The clerk is watching. The salaried man is watching. The professional man, whether the small doctor and lawyer in the country town, or the private on the firing line in the city, is discovering a vigilance and an intelligent grasp of men and measures that combine to form a powerful and inscrutable force in American politics.

It is an era of alertness and of analysis, not by the student alone, but by the ordinary, everyday man whose mind grasps slowly at the problems of fundamental import, because it has not been long disciplined to such exertion.

The sum-total of the tendency is that we are going to have better government, cleaner, more efficient, more direct and intelligent government. Once men begin to watch, they study. Once they understand the true inwardness of great public questions, they begin to realize their own personal stake in a fair and equitable settlement.

Most important of all, the man equipped with knowledge at all points, is the man whom it is impossible to cajole or fool. He ceases taking his convictions pre-digested. He displays a steadily increasing preference to do his own mental and political investigation and assimilation.

The ultimate result of such a condition of things is, as indicated by Leslie's, the decline and fall of the demagogue.

That spectacle is not coming in our day, since education and the habit of independent political thought and action have yet to make their final conquests.

But indications of progress are not wanting. Insurgency in both great national parties, and independence even of insurgency where it fails to establish its case, are significant straws. Popular election of United States senators, the augmenting demand for the initiative and referendum, the recall, commission government and concentrated power and responsibility, are other infallible portents.

But it all gets back to the manner in which the average man is taking his civic obligations and rights with growing seriousness. The prevalence of that sort of condition is inevitably a powerful influence for good government, under whatever form of administration its functions are exercised.

SUMTER'S LESSONS TO DEVELOPERS.

Trade bodies or other organizations engaged in the development of Georgia would do well to study the significance of two recent successive events in farm sales in Sumter county.

A day or so ago The Constitution published a story of the sale of a large Sumter county farm at a healthy price to a South Carolinan, who expected to introduce upon it the latest mechanical aids to cultivation.

The following day was published the account of the sale of another farm, by curious coincidence, to another South Carolinan, but under conditions more unusual than those attending the first.

L. Luther Mayer, of Newberry, S. C., is the latest purchaser, and he bought 1,500 acres from L. A. Thomas for an aggregate of $40,000—a fortune not to be sneezed at even in prosperous south Georgia.

The main point of the most recent sale turns upon the enterprise, industry and perspicacity shown by Mr. Thomas. He made a start eighteen years ago with relatively little capital. Since then he has accumulated 3,400 acres in toto. He has lived well, watched the steady enhancement of his property, and now sells less than half of it for a sum that will make him independent the remainder of his days. That is not to reckon with the income from the 1,900 acres he retains.

The news dispatch containing this information concludes with the statement that land sales in Sumter have aggregated a million dollars for the past year, and that all of the money has been kept in the county.

The lessons Sumter offers from these two instances are valuable.

They are: First, the richness, attractiveness and steadily enhancing value of Georgia farm lands, and the necessity of publicity in carrying these facts to the nation. Second, the desirability of securing for the development of idle or insufficiently cultivated lands either people with whose viewpoints and customs we are thoroughly familiar, as in the case of these two South Carolina buyers, or purchasers from other parts of America who can readily assimilate with our own people.

It will also be of aid to bear in mind two additional facts—that the records shown in Sumter can be duplicated in the majority of the counties in Georgia, and that Sumter's record itself is largely due to that far-seeing public enterprise that goes systematically about the improvement of the county's highways.

"That Far-Off Little Town."

I think God made that far-off little Town
From some sweet scrap of woodland He had left;
I think He traced its lanes with fingers deft,
And bade the skies above it never frown.
I think He wrought those houses, white and brown,
From some fabric like the Golden Fleece;
I know He named their watchwords Love and Peace,
And set the stars high over for a crown.

I know He guards it night and day whilst I
Seek phantom treasure at the rainbow's end,
Blessed beyond cavil if the twilight lend
Or sight or sound which Love will not let die—
Now lilacs purple all the dusk, and hark!
A robin sings defiance to the Dark.

Napoleon's Custodian at St. Helena.

(Stokoe, "With Napoleon at St. Helena."

Sir Hudson Lowe, the man appointed by England to be the custodian of the emperor, arrived at St. Helena on April 14, 1816. His appearance was not prepossessing. He was extraordinarily thin, with a stiff carriage; he had a long bony face blotched with red, and scanty hair of dirty yellow color. His hollow eyes gleamed under thick reddish eyebrows, but were furtive and restless, never looking straight at anyone save by stealth.

"That is a bad man," declared Napoleon, when he had seen him. "His eye, as he examined me, was like a hyena's caught in a trap."

He really resembled this horrid, sly animal in its walk, as well as in hair and eyes. He never sat down when he was talking, but swung about, hesitatingly and with abrupt jerks.

PURITAN HIMSELF, HE PUTS PURITANISM TO ACID TEST

Remarkable Address in Which Darwin P. Kingsley, Before New England Society, Gently Scores "Forefathers."

To be yourself of Puritan descent and to possess the perspective to apply the miscroscope to the creed and practice of the Puritan fathers is in itself an achievement.

But when to that is added the temerity to indulge in such detailed and not altogether complimentary analysis before one of the supreme courts of Puritanism, the situation challenges interest.

And that is what Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, did in his address delivered on Forefathers' day before the New England Society in New York city.

These annual orations are events with the New Englanders of New York. They come with a pleasant anticipatory glow, expecting that the speaker will indulge in graceful panegyrics on the illustrious qualities of that great sect inevitably identified with New England.

A Humorous Bombshell.

It may easily be imagined that into this select and reverential circle, the blunt sentiments of Mr. Kingsley came with the effect of a gentle bombshell.

He did not excoriate the Puritan fathers. He gave them credit for great qualities that had figured in American history. But he also said some iconoclastic things about the common ancestors of himself and his auditors, such as were probably unique in the society's annals.

His subject was "The Forefathers and the American Idea." He said in part:

"Most of us who trace our lineage directly or indirectly to New England, in studying the Puritan and in estimating what he did, have adopted a mental attitude which approaches hero worship. The figures of the forefathers loom gigantically; they move across the perspective of our historical knowledge no whit less indomitable and heroic than the figures of mythology. A proper mental attitude toward progenitors is commendable. Our reverential attitude toward the forefathers may well be studied by future generations. We have assumed it, however, not for the purpose of instructing our descendants, not at all; it is just a spontaneous expression of the natural humility of the present generation. Hitherto our nearness to Puritan times has explained any really faulty conclusions that we may have reached. Studying the Puritan critically has not been unlike estimating the height and linear dimensions of a great mountain peak when near to it.

"We have been disposed to credit the Puritan with all manner of virtues and to charge him with no wickedness and little error. This mental slant has flattered our family pride, and has sometimes helped the genealogists over doubtful places in our family histories. But the facts hardly warrant such flattering conclusions."

Conflict With American Idea.

Elaborating the conflict of the Puritan standards with American ideals, Mr. Kingsley said:

"But, some one says, the Puritan did have the America of today in his heart, when he began to come to Salem and Massachusetts bay; he did foreshadow the great things for which this country now stands; he was the prophet whose work and voice told of the coming of the great western republic. Candidly, I can't see that the Puritan when he began to migrate had, consciously, anything in his religion or ideas of government or plan of society which to any appreciable degree foreshadowed what was to happen. The institutional forms through which what we may call the American idea has chiefly expressed itself are:

"1. Pure religious liberty.

"2. An asylum for the oppressed of all lands—except two or three.

"3. A government based on the theory that all power emanates from the people.

"What was the Puritan's attitude toward these principles? What did he do to establish them?

"He was not merely hostile to them; he was their enemy, bitter, implacable.

"The story of his fight against religious liberty is little short of amazing."

"Bigoted and Harsh."

After developing these three points of divergence, Mr. Kingsley continued:

"The Puritan was bigoted, unsympathetic, harsh—even cruel, but he believed in his right to govern himself and to worship God as he saw fit—and incidentally to make everybody else do as he did. But this was really incidental. The great thing about the Puritan—the thing that made him a beneficent and lasting power in the world—was his intense belief in his individual responsibility, the assertion of his individuality."

Power for Good.

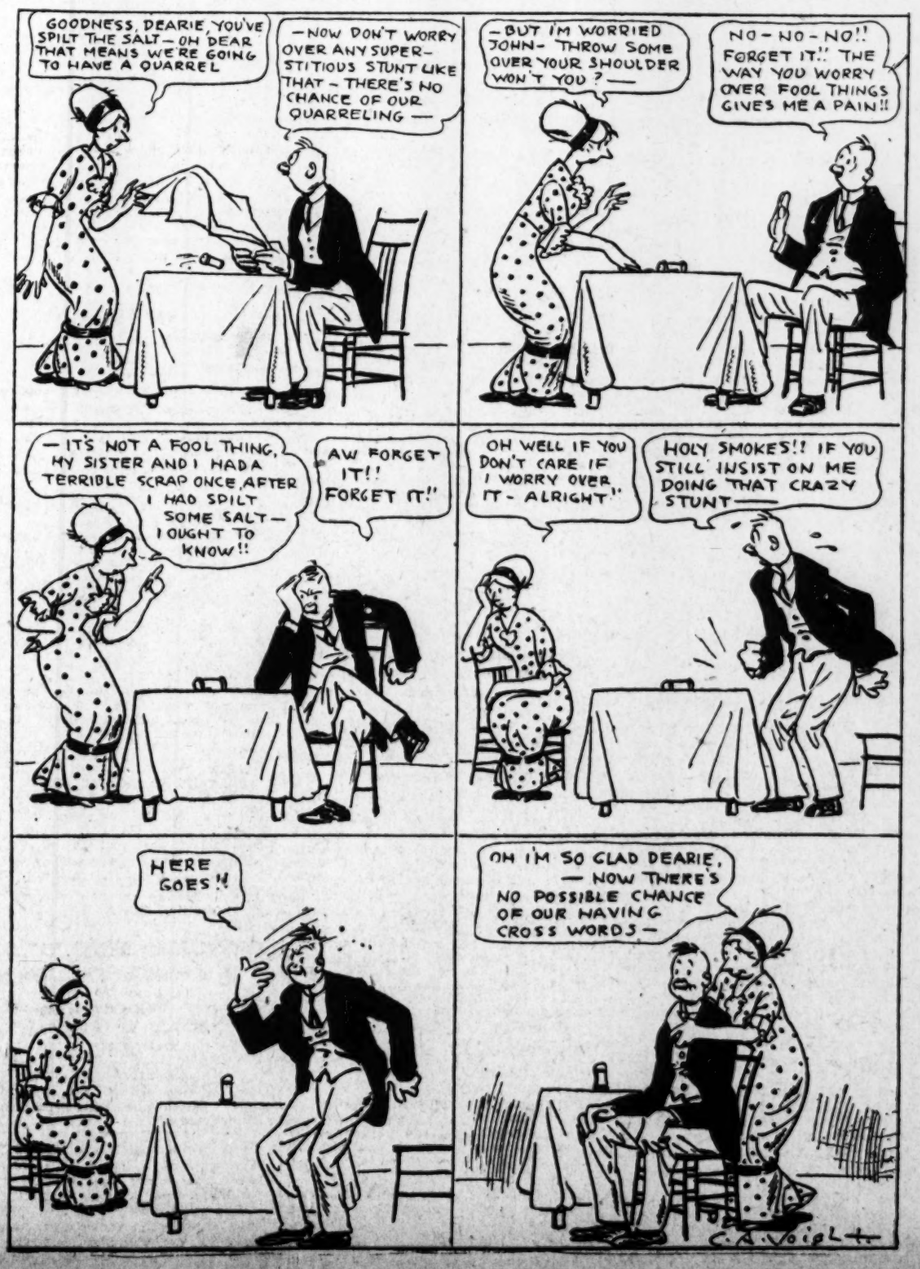

Mr. Kingsley concluded as follows, by describing how the constructive qualities of the Puritan had gone into the American melting pot, and contributed to national greatness:

"The Puritan's spiritual intensity and individuality supplied the driving power which the Pilgrim lacked. The Pilgrim opened the door to the land of the New Man. The Puritan tried to close the door, but destiny held it open. The oncoming thousands, whether they entered the land by the Pilgrim gate or elsewhere, caught the infection. They took from the Puritan not his theocracies, but his conception of individual responsibility. Away went the external forms of Puritanism. Away went the whole European program of society. In came the New Man, and with him a demand for the Puritan standards of conduct, standards which have ultimately controlled the public opinion of this people ever since we became a nation, standards under which alone government by the people can endure. Events translated the bigotry of the Puritan into virtues; it was first translated into power; it became power because it was unselfish, because it was born of conviction, not of ambition. Freed from theocratic limitations, Puritan bigotry became self-respect. Self-respect gave form and substance to the dreams of Roger Williams, place and force to the justice and gentleness of the Pilgrims, and, finally, rekindled the torch which fell from Constantine's hand.

"The forefathers taught us self-respect; the doctrine that civic salvation comes from within and not from without. They taught us disbelief in the divine right of kings, belief wholly in the divine rights of man."

Talks About Atlanta

The Proper Treatment.

(From The Macon News.)

They have got a public official in Atlanta who hasn't taken a holiday in fifty-one years. Somebody ought to blindfold him and back him into the capitol during the session of the legislature and let him get a few wrinkles on killing time from the Georgia lawmakers.

A Relative Necessary.

(From The LaGrange Graphic.)

Augusta has produced a woman who has done the "Carrie Nation" stunt. Atlanta should come forward and produce a relative of the original Carrie.

Easy Flying in Atlanta.

(From The Greensboro News.)

Augusta, Ga., has established an aviation school, but, if hot air will help do the trick, Atlanta will be the first to learn to fly.

Splits and Knots.

(From The Athens Banner.)

That "park board" in Atlanta must have been "busted." Anyway, there were splits and knots in it.

The "Fatal Triangle."

(From the Griffin News.)

The sensational shootings over the "fatal triangle" still entertain our friends in Marthasville.

Needs a Heft.

(From The Greensboro News.)

When an Atlanta paper uses the word "prize" when it should say "pry," it is time somebody furnished a lever and fulcrum to lift that town up a bit.

Some Money.

(From The Fitzerald Enterprise.)

More than thirty millions of dollars are deposited in Atlanta banks. Pretty plenty of money, to be sure.

A Remarkable Woman.

(From The Savannah Press.)

An Atlanta woman publishes in the newspapers that she is not married. Here is either a brave woman or an anxious one.

Atlanta v. Nineveh.

Two alleged Chaldean missionaries collecting money to build an orphanage at Nineveh have been arrested as fakers in Atlanta. Atlantans had better be leaving town if a crusade against fakers is inaugurated. Nineveh is painfully suggestive of a Jonah.

Envious of Adams County.

(From The Chattanooga Times.)

Atlanta must be very envious of the publicity Adams county, Ohio, has attained.

A Confession.

(From The Tampa Tribune.)

Atlanta is going to have a night court, which may be construed as a confession that there is so much wickedness there the day courts can't keep up with it.

One and the Same.

(From The Charleston News and Courier.)

It seems that Atlanta has wedded Fulton county. At least they are one and the same.

WOMAN STRANGLED IN NEW YORK HOTEL

By Man Who Had Registered as Her Husband.

New York, January 29.—The body of a young woman, strangled to death, in the opinion of the police, was found in a room on the second floor of the Bryant hotel in Sixth avenue, tonight. Up to late hour investigation had developed no clue to her identity or that of the supposed murderer. A couple which had occupied the room last night were registered as Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Mont Clair, N. J.

A bell boy discovered the body tonight. A handkerchief had been stuffed down the woman's throat, and her neck and face were discolored and bruised. The hotel clerk informed the police that the man who had accompanied the woman to the hotel left early this morning.

The victim of the murder was about 30 years olds, and pretty. There was evidence that the woman had fought hard for life. Her body was found lying partly on the bed and partly on the floor, and although dressed, her clothing was badly torn. The police believe the murder was committed between 2 and 6 o'clock in the morning. Neither the man nor the woman had been seen at the hotel before, according to the night clerk.

THEATER PUBLICATION TO APPLY FOR CHARTER

One day this week application for charter will be filed by the Amusement Guide Company, asking for the right to incorporate with a capital stock of $25,000. It is stated that all the stock of the company has been subscribed, and that none is now on the market. The company is publisher of the Southern Amusement Company and Atlanta Stageland.

On January 1 the owners of the publications secured the services of Henry A. Foss, of New York city, as manager, and he has already reached Atlanta and has bought a home. It is understood that Walter N. Dennis will be president and Henry A. Foss general manager.

Last Hanging in Kentucky.

Lexington, Ky., January 29.—James White, an 18-year-old feeble-minded negro boy, will be hanged at Pineville, Bell county, Kentucky, tomorrow morning for the assault and murder a year ago of a little white girl. This will be the last legal hanging to ever take place in Kentucky, as it is the last murder committed before last June not already disposed of and the death sentence for crimes committed since that time will be carried out by electrocution at the Eddyville penitentiary. Governor Willson has refused finally to commute the sentence of White.

Wild Horse Creates Excitement

West Point, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—On Saturday night the horse of a negro broke loose from the hitching post at one of the stores and ran at full speed down Gilmer street, breaking the harness and lines. It is supposed the horse became frightened at the electric light that was near. Although it was early, and many were going to their nomes at that hour, no one was hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Swift are standing just to the right of the center of the table. Those in the party, from left to right, are: Mr. Doughty Manley, Miss Helen Bagley, maid of honor; Mr. Thomas L. Swift, best man; Miss Martha Whitman, Mr. Walter Nash, Miss Nan duBignon, Mr. Ernest Ottley, Miss Louise Hawkins, Mr. Swift, Mrs. Swift, Mr. Dave Kirkland, Mrs Doughty Manley, matron of honor.

W. B. THOMAS DEAD; LAWYER-PREACHER

Atlantan Was Brother of Ex-Governor of Colorado.

W. B. Thomas, brother of ex-governor Charles S. Thomas, of Denver, Col., died at his home, 323 Oak street, Saturday night at 10 o'clock after an illness of several months.

Mr. Thomas was well known in Atlanta as an attorney, and had been a leader in religious work in the state for many years. He was for three years an evangelist, giving up his practice as an attorney to preach. Later he again resumed his work as a member of the bar, but had never entirely given up his work as an evangelist.

He was born in Darien, Ga., 63 years ago, and lived there only a few years, his parents moving to Bibb county when he was 5 years old. At the age of 19 he went to Michigan, returning several years later to marry. After his marriage he went to Colorado, where he was one of the most prominent lawyers of Buena Vista and Austen.

Twenty-three years ago Mr. Thomas returned to Georgia and settled at Towns, Ga., conducting his practice at McRae. He was the Southern railroad's attorney at McRae. Three years ago he moved to Atlanta, but kept his practice at McRae. He had been ill for several months at the time of his death.

Surviving Mr. Thomas are his wife, three sons, Charles S. Thomas, of San Francisco; W. B. Thomas, of Tacoma, Wash., and R. A. Thomas, of Atlanta, one daughter, Miss Lola Thomas, and his brother, ex-governor Charles S. Thomas, of Denver, Col.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

DEMONSTRATION WORK IN SEVEN COUNTIES

Three Days' Session of Georgia Agents Convenes Monday in Albany.

Statesboro, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—With 660 demonstrators in seven counties of this section of the state, B. S. Mooney says that the outlook of the Farmers' Co-operative and Demonstration Work is brighter than it has ever been. When Professor J. W. Willis was transferred from this field to the work in Mississippi, Mr. Mooney, who only looked after the work in Bulloch county at that time, was given the counties of Bulloch, Screven, Burke, Bryan, Jenkins, Jefferson and Richmond to visit and instruct the demonstrafors as to the course to pursue. In Bulloch there are 350 demonstrators; Screven, 50; Burke, 50; Bryan, 50; Jenkins, 40; Jefferson, 25, and Richmond, 25.

Mr. Mooney will leave tomorrow for the three days' session of the Georgia agents at Albany, convening Monday and continuing through Wednesday, at which many important subjects will be discussed. Mr. Mooney is on the program to make a discussion on fertilizers for sea island cotton.

FIVE SUNDAY ALARMS KEPT FIREMEN ON GO

Yesterday was a busy day with the fire department, and five calls were answered during the day. None of them were of a serious nature, and all were gotten under control in less than a half hour.

The first one came in at noon from Humphries and Glenn streets, closely followed by one at 12:03 o'clock from West Fair and Bailey streets. At 2 o'clock a fire threatened several buildings at 110-112 Cain street, but very little damage was done. The conclusion of the strenuous day came at 6 o'clock, when two calls came in at the same time from West Fair street, Nos. 257 and 261, negro houses, which were only slightly damaged.

MRS. FLAHIVE'S STORE RAIDED BY OFFICERS

Macon, Ga., January 29.—(Special.) Chief of Police Walter Chapman and City Detectives Bunch and Jenkins today raided the store of Mrs. J. J. Flahive, on Cotton avenue, operated by J. Moss, and took away a large amount of intoxicants.

Cases were made against Mrs. Flahive and against Moss, and they will be required to answer before Recorder Daly tomorrow morning.

LADIES OF ST. LUKE CHURCH WILL FEED THE HUNGRY TODAY

The ladies of St. Luke church will feed the hungry today.

But the hungry man or woman who thinks this is a free lunch counter announcement, has another think coming—for while the feast offered will be worthy of Lucullus, a price is attached to this epicurean enjoyment.

The price will be 50 cents for the dinners, and 25 cents and 35 cents for the luncheons. The place will be the second floor of the Emery-Steiner building. The attractions will be the meals and the presence of the ladies.

The hours of entertainment announced read something like from 12 to 3. Of course, they may vary a little, but not enough to really matter, and all the edge will be given to the man or woman with a healthy appetite.

The ladies wish it understood that they give a square deal to the consumer. By that, be it understood that the meals will be satisfying, both in quantity and quality. Really folks who have just had a dinner and come to see other people eat are not wanted. What is asked and almost demanded is a real, hearty, devouring appetite, for those are the kind that repeat and advertise as well. The ladies are fond of the "come back" kind.

Among the ladies who will attend to the wants of their guests will be: Mrs. Lyman Hall, Mrs. S. I. O'Hear, Mrs. H. W. Scott, Mrs. H. H. Block, Mrs. D. B. DeSaussure, Mr. L. R. Trippe, Mrs. M. E. Mapp, Mrs. Sam Prioleau, Mrs. Hamilton Cooper, Mrs. S. Holland, and Mrs. D. B. Osborn.

The lunches and dinners will be continued throughout the week.

EVICTED BOARDER GETS MAD AND THRASHES HOUSEHOLD

L. S. Lovelace, of 59 Weyman street, was in a peevish humor Saturday night, according to reports which reached the police station, and taking umbrage at the thought of having to leave his boarding place on Weyman street, proceeded to thrash the entire household in a thorough manner.

He met Mrs. Nettie Saffold and her mother-in-law in the house, and, using a stick of stove wood, it is alleged, knocked one of them down with it, and then dealt the other a vicious slap. It is also charged that he bit Mrs. Saffold severely on the cheek. Sunday afternoon he repeated the disturbance in a smaller degree and was arrested. Lovelace is said to have been drinking at the time.

BENDER MADE VICTIM OF UNKNOWN'S KNIFE

Mysterious Assailant Slashes Man on Cheek and Disappears Like Magic.

An unknown man walked up to L. B. Bender, of 19 Connally street, last night shortly before 7 o'clock near Five Points, and without provocation dealt him a vicious slash on the cheek with a pocket knife. He made good his escape.

According to the story told by Bender, he was standing on the corner with a friend when the man, whom he had never seen before, walked up to him and said, "I am going to cut you good." He made a swipe at Bender, who thought at first that he had been slapped.

The man who did the cutting made off in the crowd at once, and there was no hot pursuit, as it was not at first known what he had done. Bender walked over to a drug store, and later was taken to the office of Dr. William J. Bell, in the Candler building, where his wounds were dressed. The knife entered behind the ear, pirced the lobe of the ear, and made an ugly gash on the cheek.

About 9:30 o'clock John Dickerson had the side of his left jaw laid open by two deep strokes of a knife in the hands, it is said, of V. T. Massey. The trouble occurred on the lower end of Decatur street, and, according to Dickerson, was an unexpected attack on the part of Massey before he could defend himself. He was taken to the Grady hospital, where his face was sewed up. Cases were docketed by the police against both of the men.

APPEALS FOR CHARITY SUBJECT OF DEBATE

"Resolved, That solicitation of contributions for charitable enterprises should be controlled by a committee of our chamber of commerce similar to that proposed for Cleveland, Ohio," was the interesting subject of debate at the Saturday Night Club last Saturday evening.

J. C. Logan, secretary of the Associated Charities, assisted by Dr. B. Wildauer, field secretary of the Federation of Jewish Charities, took the affirmative side of the question, and E. D. Clarkson, assisted by J. W. Le Craw, the negative.

Though the decision went to the affirmative, upon the evidence submitted, it was conceded in a brief talk by Mr. Logan at the conclusion of the debate, that the Chicago system, which entrusted to a committee of experts, a group of sociologists appointed by the board of trade, the control of charity appeals was even superior to the Cleveland plan, which gave such control to a group of business men.

Captain Hobson Speaks.

Montgomery, Ala., January 29.—(Special.)—Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, congressman from Alabama, and one of the best-known prohibitionists in the United States, addressed a large audience in this city, at the Grand theater, today, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. The "hero of the Merrimac" used as his subject the topic, "The Great Destroyer," an address which has met with much success throughout the country.

COSTLY JEWELS GONE FROM MRS. TRUAX'S HOME

Trinkets Valued at More Than $500 Vanish in Queer Manner.

Valuable jewels, costing more than $500, were yesterday missed from the residence of Mrs. Herbert E. Truax, 497 Cherokee avenue, according to the report of the robbery made by Dr. Galloway Truax, of 425 Cherokee avenue. How, when and by whom the jewels were stolen is not known.

The first intimation that the family had that the jewelry was missing was Sunday morning, when it was seen that they were not in their accustomed place. The stolen articles consist of one breastpin, sunburst of opals and pearls, one dog collar of Roman pearls, one ring set with a cluster of diamonds, one ring set with pearls, diagonal shape; one engraved locket, one tie clasp and a $5 bill.

LOW WATERS CAUSE POOR DUCK SHOOTING

South Georgia Again Faces Another Drought---Lakes Are Drying Up.

Thomasville, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—The duck shooting on Lake Miccosukie has fallen far below what it was expected to be this season and has been a great disappointment to those who enjoy this sport. It was said the first of the winter that the ducks were very plentiful, but they don't seem to have held out, and the season has proved unusually poor.

The lake is only about half full of water, and unless there come some rains soon to fill the underground streams, from which it gets its supply, it will probably be very much lower before long.

Iamonia, the companion lake to Miccosukie, is perfectly dry and has been so for some months, with no signs of filling up.

Appearances point to another drought, and everything is beginning to be badly in need of rain.

Many of the farmers are complaining that the soil is so hard and baked that it is difficult to drive a plow through it, and their spring plowing is being very much interfered with. In Thomasville the dust is getting very bad on the streets not paved and is very disagreeable.

PROPOSED SETTLEMENT WITH COPPER COMPANY

Farmers to Receive One-Fourth Amount of Their Taxable Property.

Blue Ridge, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—Judge Gober, of Marietta, was here representing his clients in a proposed settlement with the Tennessee Copper Company.

The proposition is to pay the farmers, who have brought suit against them, one-fourth the amount of their taxable property as returned for taxes.

This amounts to about $65,000, and one-fourth of it, the amount they propose to pay would be $16,250. Some, it is said, will accept the proposition, and others will not.

O'SHIELDS IS BACK FOR HOLD-UP TRIAL

Third Alleged Robber With Two Women Returned.

Claude O'Shields, implicated in several recent hold-ups, was returned to the city yesterday morning from Birmingham, where he had been arrested Thursday. Rosa Armstrong, who accompanied him there, and Ola Wimbish, who was the partner of Seals' flight, were placed in the station house at the same time on warrants from Judge Ridley's court charging them with receiving stolen goods.

O'Shields is thought to be the third of the hold-up men, the other two being Claude Seals and Ed Rigutti, and is the last to be brought to the city. Seals was arrested Friday night on Decatur street, and Rigutti is an inmate of the Tower on another charge of highway robbery.

O'Shields has not confessed his share in the recent crimes, and refuses to make any statement for publication. When arrested in Birmingham he had a large amount of jewelry, which is thought to be that secured from Joseph Levy and Aaron Malits on South Pryor street some time ago. The statement of his partners also points to him as the third man of the trio.

It was at first thought that Dave N. Coker was concerned in the South Pryor street affair, but the statement of Seals yesterday, the identification of a pistol and his own confession reveal Ed Rigutti as the accomplice of Seals and O'Shields. He has already been bound over with Coker for robbing a farmer of Meansville, Ga., some time ago.

Rigutti's part of the proceeds on South Pryor street is given as about $20. It appears that it was Rigutti's gun that figured so prominently in each case, and it is being held by the police as evidence.

It is also stated that at the hearing of Seals and O'Shields this afternoon before Judge Broyles evidence will be introduced to show that O'Shields was the one who struck Joseph Levy when he was slow in throwing up his hands. Seals has protested from the first that he had nothing to do with this. The weapon, a billy, is also part of the police evidence.

B. J. Harty, a traveling man of Birmingham, on Sunday gave the police his receipt for stolen property recovered to the amount of $537. This consisted of a watch with chain and locket, a fountain pen, a diamond horseshoe scarf pin and a solitaire diamond ring, which were secured from the person of Seals. Seals has admitted that he and Tom Pittman secured this stuff last week in Birmingham, when they held up Mr. Harty. Pittman is still at large.

Of the three men implicated in the hold-up, O'Shields is the oldest. He is 22 years old, an acid maker by profession and lives at 108 Strong street. Seals is 19 years old and lives at 68 Magnolia street, and Rigutti, also 19, resides at 446 East Fair street, working at a local candy factory.

MEET TO PREPARE FOR BRYAN'S COMING

A joint rally of the Atlanta Baraca and Philathea classes, numbering in all about fifty, from Atlanta and vicinity, will be held next Tuesday night at Wesley Memorial church. Supper will be served by the Philatheas from 6:30 o'clock to 7:15.

Following the supper there will be short talks made by Major R. J. Guinn, A. B. Caldwell and Dr. Joe Broughton. The general meeting, which will be open to all friends of the cause, will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

At this meeting plans will be discussed for the coming of William Jennings Bryan, who will lecture at the Auditorium-Armory on February 14, for the benefit of the Baraca Union.

It has been decided to sell reserve seat tickets at 50c, 75c and $1, with general admission 25 cents. Members of Baracas and Philatheas will make a canvass of the entire city in the sale of tickets. Reserved seats will also be placed on sale within the next few days at Cable Hall.

PROF. PHELPS LEAVES FOR SISTER'S FUNERAL

Accompanied by his wife, Professor Lawrence Phelps, of the Atlanta Theological seminary, left last night to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward, Newton, Mass., on Tuesday. During his absence Professor Lyman Hood and other members of the faculty will attend to his classes.

BIG AUDIENCE STIRRED BY SCHUBERT'S SYMPHONY

Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," beautifully interpreted on the big organ by Dr. Percy J. Starnes, afforded the most pleasure to the musically inclined who were present at the organ recital yesterday afternoon, while Dr. Starnes' skillful and attractive improvisations on "Coming Thru the Rye" delighted those in the audience who admit a fondness for tuneful and familiar melodies rather than classical selections.

The Schubert Sympony was beautifully rendered, and the large audience of music lovers went away from the auditorium more impressed than ever with Dr. Starnes' ability to handle the great organ.

The overture to "Le Cheval de Bronze," by Auber; Flitner's "Trostende Stimen;" "Berceuse and Duo," by Bizet, and Lachner's "Fest-March" made up the remainder of the program.

"THE EASIEST WAY" PROVED BASIS FOR MANY OPINIONS

Few plays have been offered in Atlanta causing quite as much discussion and developing such differences of opinion as "The Easiest Way," Belasco's only attraction of the year to be seen here.

By her very innocence of expression, her girlishness of manner, and her undeniable charm, Frances Starr gained for Laura Murdoch many friends and sympathizers, who would not have had the same feeling had the part been played by another type of woman.

In the minds of many the idea came and remained that, all in all, Laura was "handed a rough deal." It seemed in a way that life had made her the "goat," passing up a number of other people who would have been just as satisfactory in that role.

Placed in a difficult position, tempted by luxuries which she had grown to love, and feeding her love on letters alone, it was hard to walk the narrow path. Poverty tempts the most of us from it, and as one young lady expressed it: "That wealthy-looking overcoat Brockon wore was enough to make any poor girl hungry." Giving Laura a square deal, she was no worse than a lot of other people, for she had met temptation where others had been guarded from it.

Joseph Kilgore, who plays the role of Brockon, the man about town, however, does not view Laura in quite so kind a light. He doesn't coincide with the opinion that Brockon has been hounding the girl in order to gain her, but merely holds that she was weak, merely unmoral, and incapable of loving any man to any very great extent—certainly not to that extent which demands sacrifice.

Still, there are some who, on the first night of the play, asked themselves the question:

"Suppose Laura and her newspaper lover had married at the end of the play—would the girl have 'run straight' to the end of the chapter of life?"

The clever act, "Broadway Love," which was the feature of the vaudeville bill in Atlanta last week, attracted unusual attention, both in a professional and social way.

But the theater lovers who night after night witnessed the clever skit, and enjoyed to the limit the neat work of Misses Rowena Stewart and Gladys Murray, have yet to realize that "the half has not yet been told of their work."

The real wonder of it lies in the fact that these two young ladies are newcomers in the stage world. They made their debut with "The Jolly Bachelors," which visitors to New York will remember was nothing more nor less than one merry whirl of vaudeville acts of the best the country offers.

That was one year ago. In that atmosphere, vaudeville was contagious, and, having brains, the girls decided to use them. Being ambitious, they also decided that money and position would never come easy in the chorus.

So they had an act written, furnishing many of the ideas to the author, and then started out to get time. They have been on the United and the Orpheum time for some ten weeks or more, and everywhere have made good as completely as they did in Atlanta.

Yes, there was some truth in the report that vaudeville would be moved from the Forsyth to the Lyric, but as it happens, a greatly improved class of Lyric attractions has been secured for that playhouse, so there will be no switch. Vaudeville continues at the Forsyth and Stair & Havlin shows at the Lyric. "The Thief" is the Lyric attraction tonight and indicates the better class of attractions secured.

The part of Walter Hampden in "The City," which comes this week, will be taken in Atlanta by Norman Hackett, a young actor whose steady climb up the ladder of success is a pleasure to watch. He has appeared here several times before, once in "Classmates" and again in "Beau Brummel."

And listen to this list of acts that are coming to the Forsyth, all within the next eight or ten weeks, as the features: Annette Kellermann, the most perfect woman, in her wonderful swimming and diving exhibition, will come in March; Ethel Green, as pretty as any girl in vaudeville, next week's headliner, along with the great comedy offering of Howard and North, who will be features; and week after next along comes Jack Wilson, to turn sadness that may exist into happiness that will last; and very soon Dr. Herrmann, the man who tamed electricity, and on the same bill with popular Lillian Shaw.

Joseph Kilgore, one of the principals of "The Easiest Way," and Lloyd Carlton, the manager for Miss Virginia Harned, have both appeared in Atlanta under the Wells management. Mr. Kilgore played a season at the Grand in stock, also at the Ponce de Leon Casino, and Mr. Carlton was stage manager in the Fawcett shows that used to play at the Bijou and in stock at the Grand.

Hugh Cardoza has developed into a sort of fountain for information, and his advice is being sought by nearly every vaudeville act that plays the Forsyth. Cardoza has good ideas and the actor folk have found out this fact and pass the news along. He can take an act and, if it needs it, offer a suggestion or two that makes it better or stronger and of more value.

ROBERT MORAN.

Keith Vaudeville.
(At the Forsyth.)

The bill for this week at the Forsyth is one of exceptional interest, for it brings to Atlanta a number of present-day star performers, fresh from large city successes. One of the important features will be the contribution of Bixley and Fink, who are going to be Broadway musical comedy stars in a few weeks. They are clever singing comedians, and their travesty on Melba and Caruso is said to be as funny and as pleasing as anything in vaudeville.

Lester Lonegran and Amy Richards, with some assistants, will offer a comedy sketch that will also be a feature card. This is the surprise act the management promised, and it looks like the sort of act that will contribute to the magnetism of the show. Lester Lonegran is pretty well known in Atlanta. He has appeared here in high-priced offerings. The Exposition Four, a versatile quartet and excellent musicians, too, will surely be popular with all the audiences. Pretty Bertie Herron, the original "Minstrel Miss," will offer one of the best novelty acts vaudeville affords. The Three Marcontonis, the European strong men, will offer a positive novelty, and much can be expected from T. W. Eckert and Emma Berg, the clever operatic entertainers. The Torleys, sensational and clever cyclists, will present a new idea in acts of this sort.

Vaudeville.
(At the Bijou.)

This week at the Bijou will no doubt prove a most interesting and enjoyable one for patrons of that popular little house. A decided novelty will be a feature of the bill. This is the Redpath Napanees, presenting "Fun in a School Room," somewhat on the order of Gus Edwards' "Boys and Girls," which made such a hit at the Orpheum last season. In addition there will be Charles Ledegar, the bounding Dutchman, and Lottie O'Malley, comedienne. Also Charles LaSalle, who will offer new illustrated songs, and the motion pictures. Another feature novelty will be offered for the week of February 13 in the first appearance in Atlanta of the 3,000 feet of film presenting the great Cowboy and Indian frontier celebration at Cheyenne, Wyoming, in which Colonel Roosevelt participated.

TWO WAGON LOADS RED LIQUOR FOUND

Macon, Ga., January 29.—(Special.) Sheriff James Hicks and a force of deputies raided the store of W. T. Amason in Tybee last night, and an adjoining negro residence. The officers found two wagon loads of liquor and brought it in.

Amason's store had no intoxicants in it. The negro occupying the residence was an employee in the store. Nine negroes in all were taken in the arrests, the others being held for alleged gambling in the place. Amason is a former city detective.

SERVES AS PASTOR TWENTY-ONE YEARS

Dr. A. R. Holderby Preaches His Anniversary Sermon.

After twenty-one years as pastor of the Moore Memorial church, Dr. A. R. Holderby yesterday, to a large congregation, preached his anniversary sermon.

"Today marks the twenty-first anniversary of the present pastorate," he said.

"The event demands more than a passing notice. Accepting a call from this congregation to become its pastor, the work was undertaken on the 29th day of January, 1890, just twenty-one years ago today. It falls to the lot of few pastors to remain so many years in charge of one congregation.

"Many have been the changes in those years. We have all changed. No one is the same in all of his former conditions. There have been changes in our families. Changes in the church. Changes in the city.

"From a population of 65,000 in 1890, Atlanta has grown into a city of 155,000. The snail-going horse cars have given place to the electric car and the low, squatty buildings, to the stately sky-scrapers.

"And notwithstanding the city has assumed cosmopolitan proportions, and has put on the airs of a great big town, yet she has not degenerated along moral lines. Atlanta stands today at the head of the cities in this country for civic righteousness. The church membership has kept pace with the increase of the city's population. Many new and splendid chuches have been erected, and Christian activities have largely increased.

"And yet there is vast room for moral and religious improvement. Atlanta needs a great spiritual awakening.

"What about our own church Has there been any improvement?

"Along material lines there has been great improvement. The old church plant was sold for $1,575.00. The new plant is valued at $25,000. Seven hundred members have been received—400 have gone out. The annual contributions to the church have been nearly trebled.

"During these twenty-one years this church has stood in the forefront of the battle contending for civic righteousness and for everything else that looked to the moral betterment of the people.

"And yet we have fallen short of our duty and have failed to measure up to our obligations.

"It behooves us at the very beginning of the new year to strive after better things—not to mourn over our shortcomings and failure in the past, but to profit by them.

"Let us do more than we have done in the past. The church that does but little for God and humanity had better go out of business.

HUN NOBLEMAN WORKS IN A WORSTED MILL

In Order to Learn Methods for the Benefit of His Country.

Lawrence, Mass., January 29.—That he may learn the details and the methors of the manufacture of worsted for the benefit of his country, Baron Kuno von Eltz, nephew of the prime minister of Hungary, daily puts in nine hours of hard labor in the new Uswoco mill of the United States Worsted Company.

Baron Eltz makes out daily reports for his government on the progress of his work and when he returns to Hungary he expects to superintend the construction of factories for worsted manufacuring.

The Hungarian nobleman, who is 32 years old, occupies the room at the Phillips Inn, in Andover, in which the Rev. Dr. Samuel Smith wrote "America."

Fireman Badly Injured.

Jackson, Miss., January 29.—Fireman Lonnie Crawford was probably fatally injured and a negro passenger was badly hurt today when a northbound New Orleans and Great Northern passenger train was derailed 7 miles south of Jackson, evidently the work of train wreckers.

MRS. EVERETT'S TERRIBLE WEAKNESS

Pinetown, N. C.—Mrs. L. V. Everett, of this place, writes: "I cannot tell you how I suffered, for I had so many curious feelings.

I was sick all of the time, and I could not do my work.

I was poor, and very weak, and only weighed a hundred pounds.

My back would nearly kill me, and I would often almost die, with my head, and other pains.

I could not bear loud talking.

Now I weigh 150 pounds, and am strong and well.

I live on a farm and do all of my work, thanks to Cardui.

Although 52, I am well and hearty, and help work in the garden and do the housework for a family of six.

I owe it all to Cardui."

Cardui, the woman's tonic medicine, obtains its results by the power of its unique, specific curative, strengthening ingredients, especially adapted for use in cases of womanly weakness.

Please try it.

DEFENDANT IS CONVICTED BY THE MAN HE MURDERED

By Mary Reynolds Carter.

Legal records are generally considered the dullest and most uninteresting of documents, and the person in search of thrills, human interest stories and gruesome details of murder, superstition and mystery much prefer to get a good detective tale, an Edgar Allan Poe creation or some other brand of fiction guaranteed to send shivers down the spinal column, rather than go browsing among musty records in hope of being rewarded here and there with some story more strange than those of fiction.

Absorbing Interest Stories.

As a matter of faot, the court records of any community contain many stories of absorbing interest, and in order to hear them it is only necessary to talk for awhile with the lawyers, when the members of the bar happen to be in a reminiscent mood.

From the records of the court of Atlanta and the outlying territory, innumerable cases can be selected in which strange and unusual features may be found.

One true story, selected from the thousands of cases that have been handled by Reuben R. Arnold, the well-known criminal lawyer, is that of the State against Rawlins. In this instance the defendant was literally accused and convicted by the man whom he had murdered, as the corpse was being lowered into the grave.

Rumors of Fortune.

This instance is a Telfair county case.

An old man had forsworn the society of his fellow-beings, and following the death of his wife, built himself a rude hut in a clump of trees two miles or more removed from any other habitation. As he lived there from year to year, alone, unsociable, and detached, rumors of a snug fortune that was being accumulated beneath the hearthstone began to be circulated. The amount varied from reasonable sums up to unbelievable wealth, and there was much speculation concerning the old man's motives in thus hiding himself away and secreting his monies.

One morning a passer-by found the old hermit dead, with his skull crushed in. He was lying a short distance from his little hut, which had been fired and burned partially to the ground. Investigation disclosed the fact that the hearthstone had been dug up, but there was no clue to the identity of the murderer. For the next two days suspicions flew hither and thither, lighting first upon one person, then another, but the identity of the murderer remained unknown.

The Day of the Burial.

On the third day the old man was to be buried. As customary in the country, members of the family helped to dig the grave. Among those assisting was a young grandnephew of the murdered man—a boy named Rawlins.

When the coffin was brought to the grave Rawlins was one of those who aided in lowering the casket into the open grave. In some way he inadvertently touched the coffin, and straightway fainted.

The unusual occurrence awakened a superstitious belief in the minds of the others at the grave that he was the one who had killed and robbed his granduncle. Inquiries were immediately set on foot to find out where the boy had been on the night of the murder, and it was found that he and another boy had been away from home.

On the strength of this information and the swoon of Rawlins at the grave, both were arrested, and after being imprisoned for awhile, Rawlins' companion told the authorities that the grandnephew had murdered his uncle.

Rawlins was put on trial and was sentenced to a life term in the penitentiary, but after serving a part of the time, he succeeded in making his escape from the prison, and is now at large unless dead.

UNSETTLED WEATHER TO MARK THIS WEEK

Early Change to Lower Temperature Is Predicted.

Washington, January 29.—Unsettled weather with considerable precipitation over much of the country is predicted by the weather bureau for this week. A change to colder weather will overspread the greater part of the country east of the Rocky Mountains during the first part of the week, following the eastward movement of a disturbance that was over the middle west today.

The principal disturbance of the week, probably will prevail during the next several days west of the Rocky Mountains, whence it will move eastward and cross the middle west Thursday or Friday and the Atlantic states the latter part of the week. This disturbance will be preceded by rising temperature, attended by general precipitation, and be followed by considerably colder weather in northern and central districts east of the Rocky Mountains.

PARK WOODWARD ILL FROM SUDDEN ATTACK

Physicians Say He Is Practically Out of Danger Now.

Colonel Park Woodward, former general manager of the waterworks department, is ill at his residence, 139 West Peachtree street, as the result of an attack of vertigo Saturday afternoon while in the office of Attorney Howell Erwin.

For some time following the attack, alarm was felt over Mr. Woodward's condition, but he showed improvement Sunday, and the family physicians state he is practically out of danger now.

When the attack first came upon Colonel Woodward, it did not render him totally unconscious, and he was able to take a street car for his home. There he became ill and the physicians were hurriedly called in.

It will be a source of pleasure for his many friends to know of his improvement.

Funeral of Bishop Grant.

San Antonio, January 29.—Bishop Abraham Grant, of the African Methodist Episcopal church, whose body was brought here Friday night from Kansas City, and has been lying in state in St. James African Methodist Episcopal church, was buried this afternoon in the negro Masonic cemetery. The negro Odd Fellows and Masons had charge of the services. Bishop Evans Tyree presided, and Bishop H. B. Parks, of Chicago, acted as master of ceremonies. Thousands of negro clergy, many from denominations other than the Methodist, and laymen attended the services.

Des Moines Goes Aground.

Annapolis, Md., January 29.—Leaving Annapolis this morning bound to Boston, the United States cruiser Des Moines, commanded by Captain John Leonard, went aground on Greenberry Point, at the mouth of Annapolis harbor. The government tug Standish, after several hours' work, pulled the cruiser back into deep water. The hull was unhurt and the vessel proceeded on her way.

Cedartown, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—Fish, Ga., in this county, has under consideration the changing of the name of that place, and has offered a prize to the people of this county for an appropriate name.

Many names have already been suggested, and the announcement of the new name will be watched with interest.

NO CLEW IS DISCOVERED TO MISS DOROTHY ARNOLD

The mysterious disappearance of the young heiress, Miss Dorothy Arnold, from her father's home, 108 West Seventy-ninth street, New York city, has caused a nation-wide sensation. Her father, Francis R. Arnold, perfume importer, has spent thousands of dollars searching for her since she was last seen, on Monday, December 12. A reward of $1,000 is now offered by the father for the first accurate news of Miss Arnold's present abode or information leading thereto. Though all the family insists that there never was the slightest quarrel between the mother and daughter or between Dorothy and any member of the household, yet it is rumored among people who are somewhat acquainted with the family affairs that Dorothy was not as happy as she might have been. Stories are afloat that Miss Arnold was very friendly with a foreigner of excellent if not noble family, and it is known that when her private desk was searched subsequent to her disappearance a little bundle of letters was found, indicating that she had carried on for some time a clandestine correspondence with a man who is now abroad. The detectives who were employed by Francis P. Garvan and John S. Keith, as counsel to the family, were immediately notified of this discovery, and the records of every outgoing steamer from the date of Miss Arnold's vanishing were carefully searched. Moreover, the wireless was called into service, and messages were sent to every steamship so equipped asking if Miss Arnold was aboard and giving a description of her.

DEVIL INROLE OF REFORM AGENT

Dr. Jas. W. Lee Preaches Striking Sermon in St. Louis.

That the rank and file of the people of the civilized nations will soon refuse to be taxed enormous sums for war preparations, and that the powers will consequently be driven to arbitration as a substitute for the law of the jungle, was the conclusion expressed by the Reverend Doctor James W. Lee, in a sermon last night at St. John's Methodist church, Washington boulevard and Kingshighway, says The St. Louis Republic of January 23, in a report of the sermon of Dr. Lee, formerly pastor of Trinity and Park street Methodist church, in Atlanta.

"The cost of armaments and battleships and pensions," he said, "has become such a burden upon the peoples of the great nations that peace is clearly inevitable.

"With crime using up a billion dollars at the bottom of society in this country, to speak of no other, and with war using up nearly a half billion at the top, the rank and file of our people are being driven to devise ways to eliminate crime and war."

"The Devil in the Role of Social Reformer" was the topic of Dr. Lee's sermon.

Is a Potent Agent.

He declared that the devil is the most potent agent of reform of this age, in that he stirs into activity the beneficent faculties of men as a remedy for his work.

"We propose to take the word devil," said Dr. Lee, "as a term to represent whatever is inimical to the physical, moral and spiritual welfare of man. The peoples of every age and nation have recognized and sought to define to themselves the reality of evil. When, in our thought, we personify evil, perhaps the handiest term we can use to describe it is 'devil.' How that agency or force or idea, that opposes the best interests of mankind, becomes a factor in its advancement is the subject of our discourse."

To show how the devil is a reformer in modern crime, disease, intemperance and war, Dr. Lee said:

Cost of Crime Detailed.

"According to the figures given by the Rev. John J. Monroe, in Harper's Weekly, the detailed cost of crime in the United States presents some astounding figures. The cost of crime in Greater New York is $35,562,133.24. The state, county and city authorities outside of Greater New York spend for crime $42,605,472.75. In forty-five states, New York included, the expenditure is $697,080,000. Criminal loss by fire totals $100,000,000; by customs frauds and national government loss, $10,000,000. The loss in wages of 100,000 prisoners is $28,000,000, while the loss in wages of 150,000 prisoners in city and county jails is $33,000,000. The grand total of the cost of crime in the United States reaches the stupendous sum of $1,076,327,605.99.

"Because of this vast burden of expense resting upon the taxpayers on account of crime, students have been led to consider causes by which criminals are made. It has been learned that old criminals are made out of young ones. It has been learned that if young persons are taken in the incipient stages of what would otherwise be criminal careers and put into the reform schools, under trained guards and teachers, where they are taught a trade, the ordinary branches of education, and developed along the lines of self-control, 90 per cent of crime could be arrested. That is, we have learned by experiment that 90 per cent of $1,076,327,605.99 could be saved by simply building in the centers of population reform schools for the education and training of incipient criminals.

Criminal as Reformer.

"Here the criminal becomes a social reformer by forcing the minds of students and legislators to adopt methods for the arrest of crime. It is because of the coercion of crime that reform schools are being established in all the states and social settlements are being planted in all the cities. These institutions become valuable not only because of the crimes they arrest, but because also of the men and women who are developed into saints by the efforts they make to train and educate young people living in the submerged parts of our great cities.

"The attempt on the part of thousands of consecrated men and women to solve the problem of crime and the effort they are making to eliminate crime by the inculcation of right ideas and by training and discipline are doing as much for the reformers as they are doing for the neglected populations. That great and splendid woman, Jane Addams, never would have been heard of had there been no undrained social swamps in Chicago.

EXPOSITION TO SHOW 50 YEARS OF PROGRESS

Italy Will Open Exposition at Turin on the 29th of April.

Washington, January 29.—Of the greatest interest to the American producer of raw material, the manufacture and the exporter will be the Turin exposition which opens April 29, next, in the presence of the king and royal family of Italy, diplomats and foreigners of distinction and the Italian parliament. Without doubt the exposition will also attract a great number of tourists from America for the reason that it will be the greatest ever held in Italy.

The occasion for the exposition is the fiftieth anniversary of the historic year 1861, when Victor Emanuel II. was declared the first king of Italy from Turin, and it is expected to present a picture of progress greater and more remarkable than any ever seen in Europe in so short an interval as fifty years. The United States will have the largest government exhibit at the exposition. There will be 125 buildings, covering 75 acres.

Consul Michelson, at Turin, points out that at present the need in Italy of manufactured products from the United States, or elsewhere, is greater than ever before.

League Selects Los Angeles.

Washington, January 29.—The Navy League of the United States has determined upon Los Angeles as the location for its next convention to be held March 7 and 8. Los Angeles has been joined by Pazadena and other California cities in the invitation to the Navy League, and it is expected that the convention will be the occasion for a general demonstration of Pacific coast naval strength and needs.

NEW HIGH BRIDGE HIGHER THAN OLD

Big Piece of Railroad Work Means Better Facilities.

High Bridge, Ky., January 29.—The work of replacing the famous Queen and Crescent bridge over the gorge of the Kentucky river, for years the highest railroad bridge in the world, with a structure 31 feet higher, the new bridge being build on the same foundations as the old and without interfering with traffic, is just being completed.

In addition to being a remarkable feat of engineering, this work will prove of practical importance to business communities throughout the south, as the construction of the new bridge will provide greatly improved facilities for the line over which is handled the great freight and passenger traffic between the west and points on the Southern railway, the Alabama Great Southern railroad and connections in the south that passes through the Cincinnati gateway. The increased height of the new bridge will give a much better grade at this point, while its great strength will allow the use of much heavier locomotives than have been run over the old. The new bridge is also designed to carry double tracks.

The new bridge, like the old, was erected on the cantilever principle and is of steel throughout on stone piers. It is 1,230 feet long and the track level is 308 feet above low water mark. Abount 6,900 tons of steel have been put in place, leaving approximately 142 tons yet to be placed, the greater part of which cannot be put in its permanent position until after the removal of the old bridge. The principal work remaining to be done consists of riveting, the structure being designed with riveted connections throughout. Out of a total of something more than 178,500 field rivets, 132,400 have been driven and it is expected that riveting will be practically completed by March 1, 1911. The new approaches, consisting largely of high embankments on either side of the bridge, made necessary by the increased height of the structure, are about completed.

27 SONS OF ANN ARBOR MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

Lot of Statesmen Turned Out by the University of Michigan.

New York, January 29.—In the announcement tonight of a dinner which the eastern alumni of the University of Michigan will hold at the Hotel Astor here next Saturday evening, a new intercollegiate competition comes to light, that of turning out congressional timber. At the dinner it is planned to entertain no less than twenty-seven former members of the university who are now members of the congress of the United States.

The University of Michigan delegation in congress is larger than that from any other university. Harvard is rated second, with sixteen of her alumni in congress; Yale and the University of Virginia are tied for third place, with fifteen each, and others run as follows:

University of Iowa, 10; University of Wisconsin and Cumberland university, 9 each; Georgetown university, 8; Columbia university and the University of Chicago, 7 each; Washington and Lee university, 6; University of Pennsylvania, Vanderbilt university, Missouri and Cincinnati Law school, 5 each; Princeton, Amherst, Trinity, University of South Carolina, Dartmouth, University of the South, University of Arkansas, Tulane university, Bowdoin, Albany Law school and the University of Texas have 4 members each, of their alumni in congress.

The record of twenty-seven, which the Univeristy of Michigan claims, includes four United States senators—Shively, of Indiana; Warner, of Missouri; McCumber, of South Dakota, and Sutherland, of Utah.

William R. Day, justice of the supreme court, who is also a Michigan alumnus, will be the principal guest. Every effort is being made to make the dinner a memorable event in university annals.

M'CURDY DETERMINED TO CROSS STRAITS

Aviator Is to Remain at Key West Until the Winds Calm.

Key West, Fla., January 29.—Sunday proved another day of disappointment for J. A. D. McCurdy, the aviator, who has been awaiting favorable weather conditions for nearly a week for his flight from Key West to Havana. Early this morning the wind was too high for an attempt and late this afternoon when the weather finally was favorable for a flight, it was too late to get the torpedo boat destroyers in position along the course.

McCurdy announced tonight that he would remain here until the weather was favorable for his proposed flight. He said his agreement with The Havana Post did not set a time limit and that he was determined to make an effort to cross the Florida straits. A flight will be attempted in the morning if conditions permit.

DAILY HINT ON FASHIONS

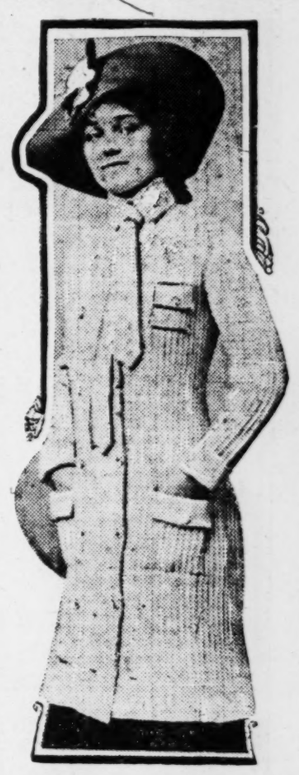

By Marie Montaigne.

A very nobby new style of sweater has come into fashion this season along with a score or so of various styles of sweaters which are warm and practical, but not quite as fetching in style.

The new feature in this sweater is the attached four-in-hand of the same yarn in a different weave, and which brings the turn-over collar close up under the chin and keeps it in place. One's neck is well protected, while the double-breasted front makes it impossible for cold to penetrate through botton holes to the chest.

Another pretty feature about the new sweater is the way in which the pocket flaps are woven and turned over with a knitted-covered button to hold them in place. Big white pearl buttons also serve this purpose, but the covered button is rather more distinguished-looking.

The fad for outdoor winter sports has made the production of sweaters that women can wear gracefully a necessity. In the beginning, girls were wont to don their brothers' unlovely sweaters until the demand for something light and warm became so great that manufacturers began to think up dainty designs for women's uses. Besides the sweater for sporting purposes, a number of simpler and shorter varieties are brought out for wear under coats. The possession of a garment of this sort makes it possible for a woman to wear the same coat suit on both mild and very cold days, and so saves the economical woman from the necessity of buying more than one trotteur costume.

Cyclists Name Officers.

Macon, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—At a meeting of Macon motorcyclists this afternoon, S. W. Hatcher was elected president for the year, Bill Sampler, vice president; G. B. Long, treasurer, and F. H. Jones, secretary. S. W. Hatcher was made legal adviser and Leighton Brown physician and surgeon. A smoker and a number of cross-country runs were planned. A large number of enthusiastic members of the club were present.

Milner-Trippe.

Cartersville, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—A social event of Wednesday afternoon was the marriage of Miss Eva Milner and Mr. Luther Trippe, which took place at the First Presbyterian church at 5 o'clock.

The church was simply but effectively decorated; the altar and choir banked with palms and ferns, and pots of hyacinths and lillies.

Mrs. George Aubrey presided at the organ, and rendered some beautiful musical numbers prior to the entrance of the bridal party. The ushers came in first, Messrs. William Bradley, Carl Nelson, Madison Milam and Thomas Milner. Mrs. James O'Rourke, the bride's sister, was matron of honor, and entered alone. She was a very dainty figure in a nattier blue silk frock and big hat of blue beaver, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The bride entered with her father, Hon. Thomas W. Milner. She wore a stylish suit of brown cloth, with toque of brown velvet. Her flowers were bride roses. At the altar she was met by the groom and his best man, Mr. James C. O'Rourke. The wedding ceremony was impressively read by Rev. L. G. Hames, the bride's pastor, and the concluding prayer was offered by Rev. S. C. Dean, pastor of the Baptist church.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Trippe left for Florida. Upon their return they will be at home with the groom's parents on Main street.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Florence Harris, of Atlanta; Mr. Watt Harris, of Montgomery, Ala.; Mr. Thomas Milner, Jr., of Albany; Miss Sara Bert, Mr. Smiley Johnson, Miss Estelle Johnson, of Rome; Miss Allie McEwin, of Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. John Evans Dead.

Paris, January 29.—Dr. John Evans, an American dentist living in Paris, died here today. He was a nephew of Dr. Thomas W. Evans, who died in 1897, leaving a vast estate, the greater part of which was bequeathed to the city of Philadelphia, the residuary legatee for the erection of the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental College, about $6,000,000 being available for that purpose.

Baron Winterstake Dead.

London, January 29.—Sir William Henry Wilts, first baron of Winterstoke of Blagdon, died suddenly today of heart failure. Lord Winterstoke was born in 1830, and was created baron in 1905. He was pro-chancellor of the University of Bristol and chairman of the Imperial Tobacco Company. He was a noted breeder of cattle and horses.

Hillard's Assailant Caught.

Macon, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—Sheriff Hudson, of Spalding county, today reported to Sheriff Hicks, of Bibb, the capture of John Graham, the negro, who last week shot Clarence Hillard, a foreman at the Royster Guano Company, and dangerously wounded him. Sheriff Hicks traced the negro into the woods and lost him. Later he bent every effort to locate him and upon receiving notice this afternoon, went immediately to Griffin to bring the negro back to Macon. Hillard is recovering.

IT'S ILLEGAL TO USE RED CROSS EMBLEM

Red Cross Society Will Take Steps to Enforce the Law.

Washington, January 29.—The American Red Cross has asked the solicitor general of the United States to advise it as to the proper steps for the enforcement of that portion of its federal charter relating to the use of its emblem and name for advertising by private firms and manufacturers. Such use of the Red Cross is punishable by a penalty up to $500 or a year's imprisonment. It is believed that many persons who use the emblem and name for advertising purposes are not aware of the fact that such use is forbidden by law.

The United States has entered into a treaty with all the civilized governments of the world to prevent the misuse of the Red Cross emblem or title. The law adopted by the United States specifically prohibited the use of a "great red cross on a white ground, or any sign or insignia made, or colored imitation thereof, or of the words 'red cross,' or "Geneva cross," or any combination of these words." The use is forbidden even for charitable purposes, except by the American Red Cross, its employees and agents, and the army and navy sanitary and hospital authorities.

The use of the red cross on New York ambulances has been abandoned, and medical and other associations have agreed to help suppress its use for any advertising purposes. The officers of the national organization request of the solicitor general an opinion of the best method of proceeding against those who continue to use the emblem or name.

In Memory of Gilmore.

Washington, January 29.—Tributes to the life, character and public services of the late Represenative Samuel L. Gilmore, of Louisiana, were paid in the house of representatives today at a special session presided over by Representative Broussard, of Louisiana, as speaker pro tem. The speakers, in addition to Mr. Broussard, were Representatives Kahn of California, Borland of Missouri, Dupre, Pujo, Ransdell and Estopinal, all of Louisiana.

Steamer Jamaican Damaged.

Mobile, Ala., January 29.—Every fluke of the propeller of the British steamship Jamaican, Captain Brown, was stripped by coming in contact with a sunken timber as the vessel was about to proceed to sea, en route for Liverpool. The vessel was in charge of tugs at the time, and the big propeller had made but a few revolutions when the accident occurred. The Jamaican has a large cargo of cotton on board, practically all of which will have to be unloaded before repairs can be made.

ATHLETIC CLUB PLAYS COLUMBUS

Old Rivals Lock Horns on Saturday at Columbus.

The Atlanta Athletic Club team tackles the Columbus Young Men's Christian Association team of that place Saturday night.

Columbus and Atlanta have been playing two games each season, one in each city. Last year Columbus won both games. This year they will have a much harder job on their hands, as the club team is stronger, while the Columbus bunch is without the services of their star forward, Hippo Peddy.

But despite the loss of Peddy's services, the Columbus bunch has been making a name for themselves this year, and they are sure to give the Athletic Club boys a mighty stiff game. In fact, the odds are in favor of Columbus winning.

SOLDIER LADS PLAY GRANT ATHLETICS

City League Fives Play Benefit Game at Taft Hall.

Tonight, the Fifth Regiment team and the Grant Athletic Club five will mingle at Taft hall, the game starting at 8:30 o'clock. This game is a benefit affair for the two teams and only a nominal admission fee will be charged.

SPRING GAME DATES OF THE VOLUNTEERS

Nashville, Tenn., January 29.—(Special.)—Nashville's exhibition series has been arranged as follows:

Brooklyn, March 21, 22, 23; Minneapolis, March 24, 25; Chicago Nationals, March 27, 28, 29; New York Americans, March 31; Evansville (at Evansville), April 1, 2; Vanderbilt University, April 3, 4, 5; Louisville (at Louisville), April 6, 7, 8; a game with Cincinnati will probably be arranged to be played in the Queen City April 9, and two or three games with Vanderbilt may be added.

SCHEDULE OF GAMES OF THE CITY LEAGUE

The schedule of the City Basketball League for the remainder of the season is as follows:

February 2—Atlanta Georgian v. Wesley House Athletic Club, at Wesley courts; Grand Park Athletic Club v. Knights of Columbus, at Knights of Columbus courts, and Fifth Regiment v. Wesley Memorial, at Armory courts.

February 9—Wesley Memorial v. Grant Park Athletic Club, at Wesley courts; Knights of Columbus v. Georgian, at Knights of Columbus courts, and Fifth Regiment v. Wesley House Athletic Club, at Armory courts.

BIRMINGHAM MEETS COLUMBUS CHAMPS

The Birmingham Athletic Club, which played the Atlanta Athletic Club on Saturday night, will meet the Columbus Young Men's Christian Association team tonight at Columbus.

This should be a closely contested and hard fought game all the way through. Birmingham will have the height and weight, and in speed Columbus will only have a small shade.

PELICANS HAVE GOOD PROSPECTS

Charley Frank Has His Usual Good List of Men.

By Sam L. Gilbert.

New Orleans, January 29.—(Special.) Cubs, Tigers and Naps are slated to keep the Pelicans on the hop during the training season. The Cubs arrive by March 1, being scheduled to leave West Baden February 26, and will open against the Logical Pointers March 5. Chance will send the pitchers and catchers along ten days in advance of the remainder of the squad, said battery bear-cats being commanded by Tom Needham.

Hughey Jennings' Tigers, who train at Monroe, La., are scheduled for games March 15 and 16. The Cleveland team tears into the Southern League flag-floaters on March 19. The Cubs and the Naps will play a lot of games here, but Chief Frank says the schedule will not be made out until the aggregations actually arrive.

Charles Weskit Murphy, owner of the Cubs, comes to New Orleans Sunday to arrange for the reception of his hirelings, proceeding at Mobile, Atlanta and other points where the important once-wazzers expect to pastime during the southern trip.

The Pelicans are to report February 23, and the local plant has been put through quite a dressing down by workmen. When the ball-tossers begin batting 'em 'round there will be some awful oaths from the lips of certain self-respecting infielders, it is thought. The diamond has been built up to such an extent that ground balls will receive added acceleration on striking the packed and rolled skinned places between first and second and third, said bald stretches being of accentuated rolling nature.

The feathered flock expected this spring will be about as strong as usual. Joe Jackson was hardly dreamt of by the fans at reporting time last spring and Chief Frank will probably pick him up one of the best players for his team while the big leaguers are frolicking down south, as was the case last year. The present outlook is for this sort of crowd:

Pitchers—Breitenstein, Hess, Paige, Maxwell and Klawitter.

Catchers—Mitchell, Edwards and Robertson.

Infielders—Johnson, Pepe, Lindsay and Rohe.

Outfielders—Barr, Butcher, Weimer and Brooks.

Local fans are loud in their disapproval of the reported projected trade of Pitcher Paige for Second Baseman Wanner, of Memphis. The Dutchman shipped Lafitte to the Lookouts for Johnson, causing a lot of displeasure and also sent Pitcher Dickson to Memphis, but Paige is very popular here and no one wants to see him go.

SOUTHEASTERN LEAGUE TOWNS TO BE CHOSEN

Considerable Opposition to Admitting Huntsville in Preference to Bristol.

Rome, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—Two representatives from Rome will attend the meeting of the directors of the Southeastern League, to be held next Monday in Chattanooga, when the numbers of town to compose the league will be determined upon and a schedule of games arranged. There is considerable opposition to admitting Huntsville in preference to Bristol. Huntsville is alleged to be too far away, and it is said that Bristol is the best town of the two.

There are some here, who, in the event Morristown is dropped, would like to see Anniston substituted, and not Bristol. This would make three southern cities and three northern. There is not much probability, however, that Morristown will be dropped. If an eight-circuit league is formed it will probably be composed of Rome, Knoxville, Gadsden, Anniston, Morristown, Asheville, Johnson City and Bristol.

If, on the other hand, a six-club league is formed Morristown may be dropped and Bristol or Anniston substituted.

ROME WILL SEE BIG LEAGUE BALL

Rome, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—If plans of the baseball enthusiasts are carried out, Rome will see some big league ball this spring.

Efforts are being made to pull off some exhibition games here during March and April.

The Rochester team, of the Eastern League, will limber up in Anniston this year.

Manager John Ganzel passed through Rome not long ago, and was pleased with conditions here. He has written here stating that he would be willing to bring his club here for two or three exhibition games if some of the major league teams could be secured to oppose it. The Rome baseball association is now getting in touch with some of the top-notchers to arrange for a series of games.

73 DAYS MORE

CALL OF 'PLAY BALL' WILL SOUND AT AUDITORIUM-ARMORY

At 8:15 o'clock Wednesday night, the call of "Play ball" will be heard at the Auditorium-Armory, when the first of a series of baseball, played indoors, will be pulled off. This was decided upon at a meeting of the players at Manager Otto Jordan's office on Friday night.

All that remains to be done is to get an umpire, tear up the wooden flooring of the auditorium, sink the home plate, lay out the base lines and open the gates for the spectators.

This is the project of Otto Jordan and Bill Sharp, and the Atlanta Baseball Association has no connection whatsoever with the project. If there is any loss, these two men and their associates will foot the bills.

But speaking of loss. There is not going to be any, for the Atlanta public are hungry for baseball and they will be ready for the call on Wednesday night.

Don't get it into your head that this is the regular indoor game. It is not. It will be played just like the baseball games at Ponce de Leon. The players will wear their spikes, steal bases and run just like they would there.

The only deviation is that the ball will be a trifle larger than the regular ball, but not as large as an indoor ball. It can be thrown and is not tossed like an indoor ball. This can be seen by the record Rube Waddell made a few weeks ago, when he fanned 25 men in nine innings. The bat will be a trifle smaller than a regulation ball bat.

This game is all the rage in the east and from two to three thousand persons have attended the games in New York, Rochester, Boston and Buffalo.

Among the players who will participate in the game Wednesday night, are Otto Jordan, "Chief" Bender, Tommie McMillan, Joe Bean, Jim Ison, Ed Lafitte, Jim Lafitte and possibly Ty Cobb and Nap Rucker.

The admission price will be 25 cents. Box seats, 50 cents. A regular series of games will be announced also.

AT JUAREZ.

Juarez, Mex., January 29.—Polls, the receding favorite, easily won the Guadalajara Handicap, 1⅛ miles, at Terrazas Park today. He took the lead when ready and won by three lengths. The stewards are investigating the race won by Kopek. Jockey T. Rice was fined $100 for rough riding. Summaries:

FIRST RACE—Three and one-half furlongs: Lady Rankin (Molesworth), 6 to 1, won; Lady Hughes (Howard), 5 to 2, second; Luna Beall (Kennedy), 6 to 1, third. Time, :40 3-5. Masalo, Pretty Soon, Orlene, Recover, Tie Thomas, Royal Tea, Ethel Wicks, Tod Harrington and Albert Jones also ran.

SECOND RACE—One mile: Virgie Casse (Molesworth), 7 to 1, won; The Peer (Rice), 7 to 5, second; Marcus (McGee), 3 to 1, third. Time, 1:41. Misprison, Colonel Bronston, Pannell, Plume, Gunston, Bardonia, Mike Jordan and Vesmex also ran.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs: General Marchmont (McCullough), 15 to 1, won; Toy Boy (Kennedy), 7 to 2, second; Frank Mullens (Howard), even, third. Time, 1:06 2-5. Helmet, Enfield, Papa Nick and Annual Interest also ran.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles: Polls (Howard), 3 to 1, won; Meadow (Molesworth), 7 to 2, second; Taboo (Benschoten), 12 to 1, third. Time, 1:53 1-5. Injury and Cherryola also ran.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs: Lena Lech (Denny), 3 to 1, won; Doc Allen (Howard), 6 to 1, second; W. T. Overton (Benschoten), 3 to 1, third. Time, 1:13 3-5. Gene Wood, I'll Meet 'Er, Tom McGrath, Gramercy, Del Cruzador, Mike Molett and Joe Woods also ran.

SIXTH RACE—One mile: Kopek (Rooney), 7 to 1, won; Crossover (McCullough), 2 to 1, second; Bon Ton (Rice), 12 to 1, third. Time, 1:40 1-5. Miran Casey, Ellerd and Florence A. also ran.

MERCER WILL PLAY GEORGIA FRIDAY

Macon, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—On Friday night Mercer meets her old-time rival, Georgia, in a contest which is sure to be full of brilliant team work, fast and snappy plays, and result in a hard-fought battle.

Both teams are determined to win Nothing will be left undone by either team in their practices to round themselves into splendid condition.

Mercer defeated the Georgia lads by two points in their battle in Athens recently, and to "come back," the visitors will doubtless attempt, but Coach Stroud hopes to have his men in the finest of trim. A large delegation of students, a crowd of citizens and the Mercer band will be on hand to cheer the locals on to victory.

Westmoreland and Gaines will probably be at forward; Cook and Roddenbery at guard, and Foxsworth and Carson at center. There may be some other changes, as the class games have brought several men into prominence and with the proper training they could develop into good players.

PREP BASKETBALLERS PLAY THREE SERIES

The Atlanta Prep School Basketball League will play three series of games this week, one on Monday, one on Thursday and one on Saturday.

On Monday, Boys' High school meets Georgia Military academy, on Tuesday Tech High school tackles Donald Fraser school, and Marist college plays Peacock school.

On Thursday Tech High school plays Boys' High school, Georgia Military academy tackles Peacock school and Donald Fraser school meets Marist college.

On Saturday Boys' High school tackles Donald Fraser school, Tech High school meets Peacock school and Georgia Military academy plays Marist college.

JUST DOPE

Four well-known runners will take part in a 15-mile race at a Baltimore armory February 3—Henri St. Yves, Alfred Shrubb, Johnny Hayes and George E. Towson, a Baltimore amateur, who will make his professional debut.

Ovie Overall, of the University of California '04 team, and a member of the Chicago Cubs' staff will assist Coach Schaeffer with this year's squad.

The Cornell University management has received an invitation from Princeton University to enter a crew in the Carnegie lake regatta, at Princeton, this spring, which will mark the beginning of intercollegiate rowing by the Tigers.

Roller skating is very popular in St. Petersburg. There is very little boxing, and wrestling is reported on the decline. There is little fencing. Gymnastics is gone in for strongly, with the German and Bohemian Sokol types the most popular.

The annual eight-oared shell race between Oxford and Cambridge, will take place this year on April 1. It will be high water at Putney Bridge at 8:50 on that afternoon, so the race can be started about 2:30 o'clock—a most convenient time for the Saturday afternoon holiday-mergers.

Norway has 625 ski clubs and 20,000 members in their national association. Sweden has about 15,000 members. The American Association was organized in 1905, and has 29 clubs, with the sport gaining new followers.

JUNIORS ARE BEATEN BY THE SOPHOMORES

University of Georgia, Athens, Ga., January 29.—(Special.)—In the third of the series of class games at the University the sophomores downed the juniors Saturday afternoon by a score of 6 to 0. Despite the warm weather the game was fast considering the training that the players had, and both sides played good ball.

The championship will be awarded later. In the first game the freshmen were defeated by the sophomores, and in the second game the seniors and juniors tied. As matters now stand, the sophomores have the best claim to the title, but if the seniors and sophomores play there may be a chance for the seniors to get it. If the game is not played the sophomores will get the championship. This will entitle them to wear the "G" with the class numerals in it.

Awrey and Sancken played the best game for the sophs and Pacetti starred for the juniors. Line-up:

F. Carter	Left End	Meadow
J. Woodruff	Left Tackle	Childs
Strickland	Left Guard	McLeod
Callaway	Center	Mullins
Johnson	Right Guard	C. Estes
Ballard	Right Tackle	Russell
Cooper	Right End	Laird
Sancken	Quarter Back	Lande
Gray	Right Half	Lanham
Freeman	Full Back	Tuck

Summary—Touchdown, Awtrey. Time of quarters, 10 minutes. Referee, Cunningham. Umpire, Bob McWhorter. Timekeeper, Troutman. Field judge, Griffith. Head linesman, Bowden.

TWO BOWLING CUPS FOR CLUB BOWLERS

Do Not Have to Be Contested For in the Match Play.

Two handsome cups are now at the Atlanta Athletic Club for the bowlers to contest for. These cups do not have to be contested for in regular match play.

They will be known as the "monthly cups." They are for seven-pins and ten-pins.

The man making the highest score in each of these games during each month will have his name engraved on the cup and the man winning it the most number of months, gets it at the end of the year. This is a novel departure, but a most interesting one.

ANNUAL TOURNEY FOR CLUB BOWLERS

Tournament Starts on February 12—Three Fine Cups.

The regular annual bowling tournament of the Atlanta Athletic Club will start next month on February 12. This will be a five-man ten-pin event and three cups are offered as prizes.

The individual cup now held by M. E. Keeler will be contested for, the man making the highest average during the tournament winning that. This is a three-year cup. The man winning it three years in succession gets it.

There is a cup for the team winning the tournament and a cup for the highest individual score. The entry list is now posted. The entrance fee is $1. The entry list closes February 10.

Dick's Dopum

There are six big ten-pin tournaments this year. The first was the middle west at Omaha, American Bowling Congress at St. Louis, now in progress, which is the oldest and biggest; International at St. Paul, and Western at Spokane, as well as National Association at Buffalo, all three to be held in February, and Canadian championships, to take place at Montreal in March. Over $100,000 in money prizes will be distributed.

Wrestling champion Frank Gotch is reported willing to defend his title against the winner of a series of elimination contests between Zbyszko, Mahmout and Hackenschmidt.

Up to and including Saturday, January 7, a total of 4,227,000 people attended Scottish First League soccer matches this season, an increase of about 800,000 over that of the corresponding period of last year.

George Gray, the youthful Australian billiard marvel, now playing the English style of game in England, has up to date, made eleven breaks, exceeding 1,000 points. At Nottingham recently he made two world's records in the same match, first with a break of 1,200 and then with 1,318.

Nate Carimell, the old University of Pennsylvania sprinting champion, who turned professional last summer, will return to England this year to defend the championship and will also tour Great Britain, South Africa and Australia, and then quit the game.

Canadian lawn tennis dates are as follows: Open national championships will be held in Ottawa; the All-Canadian competition at the Rusholme Club, Toronto; the Ontario and junior events on the Toronto courts; the Toronto championships at St. Mathews, and the international events at Queen's Royal Niagara—on the Lake. Miss May Sutton will play at Niagara and Mrs. Hannam, who is living in Bristol, England, will also compete in some of the contests.

TENNESSEE CAN PLAY FOOTBALL NEXT YEAR

Arrangements for a Strong Schedule Will Soon Be Made.

The suspension of the University of Tennessee for a violation of one of the rules of the Southern Intercollegiate Association will terminate at the end of the present season, and when next fall arrives, she will be entitled to play football again.

Action was thus taken on the suspension case at the meeting Saturday night in Atlanta of the executive committee of the association upon a recommendation of the annual convention at Birmingham that the penalty be modified.

Although under this ruling the university will be barred from engaging in baseball games this spring, she is allowed to go ahead and fill out her program with other colleges for football in the fall.

The report that Sewanee was the college under consideration by the executive committee was an error. Sewanee has always been in good standing in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

LOOKOUTS ANNOUNCE DATES OF SPRING GAMES

Chattanooga, Tenn., January 28.—(Special.)—Smith has planned to start the exhibition series with Toledo on March 11, and play every day except one, until April 8, the weather permitting. The series with Toledo will start March 11, the second Saturday in March, and close March 23. The Mud Hens train here, and these games will be governed entirely by conditions. The official schedule has been issued and is as follows:

Toledo—March 11, 17, 18, 20, 21, 22, 23.
Brooklyn—(Second team) March 25.
Brooklyn—(First team) March 27, 28, 29.
New York—Americans, March 30.
Rochester—March 31, April 1.
Cleveland—Americans, April 3.
Rochester—April 4, 5.
Pittsburg—April 6, 7, 8.

BRISTOL AND ANNISTON ADMITTED TO LEAGUE

Chattanooga, Tenn., January 29.—Bristol, Tenn., and Anniston, Ala., were admitted to the Southeastern Baseball League today, making an eight-team league. The meeting was a stormy one, Manager Frank Moffett, of the Knoxville team, waging a fight against expansion. Following a threat to drop Asheville and admit Bristol, Manager Moffett declared if this were done he would withdraw his team from the league. A schedule calling for 122 games was decided upon, the season to open May 22 and close September 9.

"PIGGY" PAIGE WILL WEAR TURTLE FROCK

Despite denials by Charley Frank, it is still reported that "Piggy" Paige will wear a Memphis uniform this season, though the nature of the deal whereby the Turtles will secure the little flinger have not been announced. It is supposed to be a cash consideration.

Marshall Increases Lead.

New York, January 29.—Frank J. Marshall, United States champion, increased his lead in the national chess masters' tournament today by defeating R. T. Black, of Brooklyn. The eighth round was contested today. Chajes, of Chicago, drew with W. G. Morris, who is in last place, but retains his hold on second place. C. Jaeff came up to nearly a level with Chajes by winning a game from A. D. Hodges, who is in tenth place. Capablanca, the Cuban champion, moved into fourth place by defeating Tenenwursol, who is in eleventh place.

LAMY BROTHERS HAVE MONOPOLY ON AMATEUR SKATING EVENTS

Papa Lamy, father of Edmund Lamy, the world's champion ice skater, is probably the most picturesque character in the realm of sport, for, in addition to having in his charge the most illustrious ice speed merchant of the present day, he has also two younger sons, Ernest and Claudius, who give promise of occupying the place now held by the older brother in a few years to come. Edmund broke the world's amateur skating record for the 220-yard dash here recently when he negotiated the distance in 17 2-5 seconds, taking two and two-fifths seconds off the record. Lamy was paced by his brothers, Ernest and Claudius, and the time was made at the Pontiac rink on a track of seven laps to the mile. Lamy's performance was witnessed by a crowd of 1,000. The champion ran rather than skated, and when he turned into the stretch all that could be seen of his legs was an indistinct blur. Ernest and Claudius won many races last season and are entered in several events at the national outdoor championships, to be held at Saranac Lake, N. Y., January 24, 25 and 26. Picture shows Ernest on left, Edmund in center and Claudius on right.

Fireless Cooking for Dogs.

(J. B. Wanstall in Country Life in America for February.)

Cooking the dog's food had been rather a difficult problem in our household, either because the kitchen range was otherwise occupied or because the cook was, and the long, slow cooking necessary for cereals and tough meats was seldom accomplished without friction. Now we put the meat and bones, with enough water to cover them, in a fireless cooker receptacle, bring the contents of the pot to the boiling point in about five minutes, and then pack the kettle away in the fireless cooker for five or six hours. The meat is then tender enough to peel from the bone, and more water is added, and whatever cereal we wish to use.

The whole mass is once more brought to the boiling point, and put back in the cooker. In another four or five hours we find a supply of richly flavored food that keeps fresh in a cool place for eseveral days. The dogs seem to enjoy the food prepared in this way, and we are sure of its being thoroughly cooked, but never scorched, and the time occupied in the kitchen is minimized.

Embarrassment.

(From Puck.)

The Day of Judgment had dawned. Everything was being made right. Yet in the midst of the general rejoicing a meek little man was observed to sink down on a log by the wayside, completely discouraged, and bury his face in his hands despairingly.

"How shall I ever carry away all the umbrellas that have been returned to me?" he moaned, in much distress.

Carnegie's Latest Peace Message.

"International peace is on the eve of its greatest victory. The young men of this generation are to see the civilized world under the reign of law." This is the inspiring message sent to the American people through Leslie's Weekly in its issue of January 19. It is the great peacemaker's first utterance since the recent announcement of his $10,000,000 gift for the elimination of war. In the current issue, besides this stirring article on world peace, there is a striking Carnegie peace cover. Other features of interest are: "Why the Canal Must Be Fortified," by Robert T. Small who accompanied President Taft on recent visit to the isthmus; "Cleg's Malingering," a most appealing short story, by Caroline K. Herrick; "How One Woman Earns a Living," by Frances Frear; "Under the Sign of the Opera Glass," by Harriet Quimby, and the usual vivid photographic digest of the world's work. "Jasper" gives his invaluable advice to money-makers and investors.

CHINESE PIGTAILS JOIN "DOWN-AND-OUT" CLASS

Off with the pigtail!

The Chinese of Atlanta yesterday were brought face to face with a great problem—whether it was better to be in style or to keep faith with the ancient traditions of their mother country.

And in a number of cases the pigtail got the ax. It is mighty hard for the best of us to resist the edicts of fashion, and fashion decrees queueless Chinese from now on.

The man with the queue belongs to the "has-been" class, the "down-and-out" club, and others of similar import.

But any gambler, professional or amateur, will gladly take a bet that Confucius will turn over in his grave when he hears the news.

If the founder of a great religion were to come back to the world, he would be inexpressibly shocked. If he delays his coming some little while he will find it as hard a task to prize out of the masses a Chinese with a pigtail, as it was for Diogenes to find an honest man.

Of course, they didn't have to cut 'em off, but a Chinese with a pigtail today will be in a similar position to a lady who in this day of small hats would be discovered with a merry widow on.

Recently a movement was started to cut off pigtails in this country. Ambassador Wu Ting Fang was one of the converts. Permission from China was granted, and it was then up to the individual Chinese. Today Atlanta has her share of pigtailless Chinese.

PREACHES ON CHRISTIANS WHO ARE OUTSIDE CHURCH

"And John answered and said: 'Master, we saw some one casting out devils in Thy name, and we forbade him because he followeth not with us.' And Jesus said unto him: 'Forbid him not, for he that is not against you is for you.'"

Speaking from the above text, Rev. Dr. A. A. Little, of Westminster Presbyterian church, last night delivered a scholarly sermon, forcing home the thought that there may be Christians outside of the pale of the church as well as within its borders.

In carrying out this thought, Dr. Little raised the question of "Why are men out of the church today?" In answer to this, he said: "Some men can work best by themselves; many have erroneous ideas of church membership. The true church member is one who enters the school of Christ as a learner. Many are kept out by the necessary demands of the church.

"Jesus puts the seal of eternal condemnation on the idea that only through the church can one enter the kingdom of heaven. Some of the best

Farms and Farmers

Address all letters intended for this Department to Col. R. J. Redding, Editor of Farms and Farmers Department, Griffin, Georgia

FEBRUARY ON THE FARM.

On the whole, January conditions were quite favorable for all farm operations, and the preliminary work of cleaning up, ditching and terracing, repairing fences has doubtless been accomplished by every pushing, wide-awake, progressive farmer. Also a large part, if not all, of the plowing that should have been done in November and December. February, although the shortest (and rainiest) month of the year, is perhaps the most important in respect to preparation work. It is the month in which for the lag-behind farmer to sow "spring" oats, having failed to do so last fall, which is the only proper time to sow that very valuable crop. In the middle and upper region it is not advisable to sow before the middle of the month, unless the "open furrow" plan be adopted. The hardest freezes recorded for two generations past have occurred between the 1st and 15th of February. In fact, very little will be gained by sowing before the last named date. Don't fail to prepare the land well and fertilize liberally with a mixture that would analyze about 7—4—5, and I would supply the whole of the 4 by means of nitrate of soda, applying about one-third or one-half when sowing or within a week or ten days, and the remainder in one or two top-dressings, the first about the middle of March and the second about the last. Don't fail to treat the seed with formalin, as previously directed.

Farmers generally, if not universally, know what ought to be done in February, and need only to be urged to do it. As far as practicable use two-horse plows, or three-horse disc plows. In some places the go-ahead farmers are using traction gasoline engines to pull their gang plows. That's all right and very encouraging—tending to solve the perennial "labor problem."

Down-the-country farmers will commence to plant corn toward the last of the month. My only suggestion is to fertilize and plant only such land as will produce a profitable yield per acre, surely not less than 20 to 25 bushels. Don't use cotton seed for manure. You might as well use wheat bran. Both are rich in plant food, but too valuable for other purposes.

February in the Garden.

February is a great time for gardening. Some "early birds" have already planted peas and Irish potatoes, turnips and radishes and such. That's all right if one wants to have the earliest results, but very little is usually gained by very early planting. Irish potatoes will not come up until they "get ready," and those who wait until the 1st to the 14th will be only a few days behind the earliest, while the "early birds" may have had the experience of the "early worm."

All the hardy vegetables may be planted now, such as radish, peas, turnips, mustard, onion sets, cabbage, celery, carrots, beets and others. Fix the asparagus beds. Cover the whole surface with rotted stable manure and plow it in, but not too deep near the plants, or fork it in if the plants were put in close beds. Also apply 600 to 1,000 pounds per acre, or 100 to 150 pounds per square rod of 10—4 or 8—4. Rake the surface smooth and level. If the plants are in rows you may sow early radish, lettuce, cabbage (for plants) in the middles.

Whatever of stable manure that may be applied to early vegetables should be in well-rotted condition and applied broadcast, putting in acid phosphate and potash, 10—4, or 8—4, or the highest grade, 13—6. I believe the fertilizer men don't make such a high-grade acid and potash as 13—6, but they may just as easily do it and not sell you any "filler," if you will insist on it.

I still approve the practice of applying only stable manure and acid potash before planting and all nitrogen in the form of nitrate of soda at and after planting, as the plants themselves mutely ask for it. Stable manure is chiefly beneficial by supplying vegetable matter and soil ferments. Little or no need for nitroculture, or soil inoculation, if a liberal amount of rotted stable manure be first well worked into the soil. Even rank, unrotted stable manure is all right, in fact more effective than the rotted, provided it be plowed in several months in advance of planting the crop—as has been often said before.

It is a good plan to provide some mellow top soil, mixed with fine rotted manure, some time in advance, to be used solely for covering fine seeds, including garden peas. I have a pile of it from the decayed vegetable tops and general debris of 1909, and it's the "very thing" to insure good germination, and "coming through" of peas, beans, melons, cucumbers—everything. It never puddles, never cakes, never crusts. Muck from a muck bed makes a similar and very effective covering material if limed and sweetened and then mixed half-and-half with fine stable manure. Better still if run through a screen.

Strawberry plants may be put out if not done in November, but no crop is to be expected the coming spring. Old beds should be severely thinned out, or destroyed, and new plantings be made. A good way to thin out a matted strawberry bed is to stretch two garden lines along the bed, 12 inches apart. Then cut through the mass of plants to these lines. Leave a 18 or 24-inch space and line and cut again, using a sharp spade. Then dig out the plants from between the 12-inch strips, work out the dirt and throw the plants on the compost pile, or give them away. Then fill in the alleys thus made with good manure (rotted) and 5 to 8 pounds to the square rod of 8—6, or 10—8, acid and potash. Apply, scattering it along the strip of plants when the leaves are dry—one pound of nitrate of soda per square rod (16½x16½ feet) when the first blooms appear, and repeat in 3 or 4 weeks.

February in the Orchard.

All fruit trees, grape vines, raspberries, blackberries, etc., not pruned heretofore should be attended to at once—especially grapes. Too late to prune souppernong grape vines—that should have been done in November, immediately after the fall of the leaves. February is the time to plant our trees of all kinds. I should have said that such planting may be done now, or even in early March, as a sort of "last chance," for it should have been done in December or January.

Commercial orchardists are presumed to know about spraying and especially about the latest fungicide—self-boiled sulphur and lime mixture, said to be much superior to the older "lime-sulphur" mixture, which was made by boiling the ingredients in water. The addition of some form of arsenic makes it also an insectide. The recipe is as follows: Put into a tight barrel 8 pounds of quick-lime and enough water to cover it. When the lime commences to slake add 8 pounds of flowers of sulphur, stirring constantly, pouring in enough water to complete the slaking, then immediately add enough water to fill the barrel (50 gallons). This coats the mixture and stops the boiling. Before using it for spraying it should be strained to remove the coarse particles of lime, but the sulphur should be worked through. This is for all kinds of fungous diseases on plants and San Jose scale, and the addition of 2 pounds of arsenate of lead to the 50 gallons makes it effective against both peach rot and the curculio worms.

CALCULATED FORMULA.

D. J. Simmons, Timmonsville, S. C.—Please give me in next issue of your department the analysis of the following:

1,000 pounds 16 per cent acid.
200 pounds potash, 49 per cent.
100 pounds blood, 16 per cent.
400 pounds meal, 1.5—7—1.
300 pounds nitrate soda.

2,000 pounds.

Also give me your opinion of this formula for corn. Potash and acid applied about March 1 broadcast, the other for inter-cultural applications. Land had ten tons stable manure turned under with No. 10 Oliver chilled, in 1910, some time in November. I want to use 1,000 pounds lime on the lower edge as has a little tendency to sour. Also please give me analysis of the following:

500 pounds meal, 1.5—7—1.
400 pounds blood, 16 per cent.
200 potash, 49 per cent.
1,200 acid, 16 per cent.

This to be applied to 3 acres cotton. I want to plant corn in, say, 3 feet 2 inches by 8 inches. I intend using a prolific variety on one acre, seed grown by me in 1910, and on adjoining acre a one-ear variety of my own. I am aware of your not advising inter-cultural applications, but found it did well in 1910. My reason for writing for analysis is to confirm my figures and to get your advice.

Answer—The first formula would analyze about 8.50—4.84—5.20. I think the potash is fully twice too much for corn. One-half, or 100 pounds, of muriate would be enough. It does not appear whether your purpose is to apply the entire ton to only one or to a number of acres, and I therefore cannot criticise it. I will say that my experience has been (on the experiment station) that 500 pounds of fertilizer per acre is the row and bedded on, will produce as large a yield as 1,000 pounds of the same fertilizer, broadcasted, whether of corn or cotton.

The second formula would analyze about 9.32—4.30—4.48.

I have conceded that inter-cultural applications, even including acid phosphate and potash, are beneficial and possibly profitable, when very heavy manuring is intended. But to say, as you do, that "inter-cultural applications did well in 1910" does not necessarily imply that such applications were profitable as compared with pre-cultural applications. I made many experiments when director of Georgia station to settle that very problem. The results, without exception, were in favor of applying the whole amount before planting—nitrate of soda and cotton seed meal excepted. The amounts applied per acre were from 400 to 700 pounds.

(1) 25 POUNDS OF NITRATE PER ACRE. (2) THOMAS PHOSPHATE.

"Inquirer," Americus, Ga.—I note in your answer to letter of A. S. M., of Alabama, that you advise to mix formula number two as follows:

1. Acid phosphate (14 per cent)	1,000
2. Nitrate of soda	270
3. Muriate of potash	84
Total	1,354

You also state that the nitrate should not be mixed and put in with the potash before planting, but about 25 to 40 pounds per acre should be put in with the planting seed or on top of the covered seed, etc.

Of the two methods of putting out the nitrate, would it not be easier to put on top of the covered seed. But I am bothered to know how to put out so small a quantity. Be glad if you would write me fully how best to do this.

What do you think of substituting fo rthe acid phosphate the Thomas, and what do you know of the Thomas prohphate? A great many around here have used this with satisfactory results and I am tempted to do so myself.

Answer—It is a question of mere convenience, and it is for you to decide according to your facilities and the details of your method of planting. If you use a planter that opens the furrow, sows the seed and covers, it would be more convenient to sow the nitrate of soda on or by the side of the little ridge that lies over the seed. I have never experienced any difficulty in getting hands to sow 25 to 40 pounds of well-screened nitrate per acre. The man who distributes it should practice a little. A pint is about a pound, and 145 yards of a 4-foot row is one-twenty-fifth of an acre.

Or you may mix the amount of nitrate—25, 30 or 40 pounds—intended for one acre, with enough fine material—such as sand, or ashes—to make 100 pounds, and then cause the 100 pounds to be distributed over the acre. The total length of 4-foot rows to make one acre is 10,920 feet, or 3,640 yards. So, then, one pound, or each pound, of the 100 pounds mixture would suffice for 36 yards. It seems as easy as "falling off a log."

The "Thomas phosphate," or "basic slag," or "phosphate slag," or "odorless phosphate" (all the same) is a mixture of phosphate of lime in connection with large amounts amounts of lime and iron oxide, it is a residue from the manufacture of steel by the "basic process (Bessemer process). It contains from 15 to 20 per cent of phosphoric acid. The only objection to it is the fact that the phosphoric acid is not so quickly available as that of acid phosphate, and, therefore, not so well suited for quick-growing, short-term crops, unless applied a considerable time in advance of planting. It is somewhat cheaper than acid phosphate and is excellent where immediate results are not expected. Try it in competition with acid phosphate, using equal commercial values of each in competing adjacent plots.

BERMUDA GRASS.

Mrs. J. W. Easterling, Blackshear, Ga.—When should I plant Bermuda grass to get best results? What kind of soil is best suited for it? How many seed should I plant to the acre, and where can I get the seed, and what will they cost me? When the grass gets a good start, can it be killed? How can I keep it from spreading into other fields?

What can I get that will grow and make a green pasture the whole year round that will be suitable for hogs and cattle to graze on?

Also tell me where I can get the seed and when started if it can be destroyed.

Answer—I advise you to plant the jointed roots if conveniently obtainable any time (in your section) from March 1 to July 1, preferably about April 1. Bermuda is not particular as to soil. It will grow on the poorest soil, or the richest, the sandy and the clay, and is about the only true grass that it is worth while to plant on the great majority of our soils.

If you rely on sowing the seeds you can get them of any large seed dealer in either of our four or five largest cities. Cost about 75 to 85 cents per pound, and it will require about 6 to 8 pounds per acre. The seeds should be sown on well-prepared and smooth surface from April 1 to June 15, and covered by means of a brush lightly drawn over the surface. If the surface be freshly harrowed with a smoothing harrow the seed need not be covered at all.

Bermuda spreads very slowly, even where no attention is paid to it to prevent spreading, as it rarely produces any seed and very few if any at all. It can be prevented from spreading by simply cutting it up when found where not wanted. An old Bermuda sod of years' standing may be thinly turned over in January, harrowed several times with a cutaway harrow and then planted in corn, cotton or any other clean culture crop. It is done so very often all through middle Georgia, and the farmers now look upon it as one of their best friends instead of an enemy.

In the fall you can harrow in on your Bermuda field seeds of Rescue grass, hairy vetch, crimson clover, burr clover, and get a late winter and early spring grazing.

Send to the several seedsmen for their catalogues. They give a good deal of reliable information about various grasses and forage plants.

ANALYSIS POTASH-HUNGRY SOILS.

J. E. Johnson, Troy, Ala.—Kindly help me a little; I have been doing my own mixing. If I mix together 200 pounds of 16 per cent acid, 140 pounds of 8 per cent cotton seed meal and 18 pounds of muriate 50 per cent, what would the mixture analyze? What kind of soil needs potash most? My land is high, red land. I have been thinking of leaving out the muriate. Can I afford to do it?

Answer—A mixture of 200 pounds of 16 per cent acid, 140 pounds of 8 per cent cotton seed meal and 18 pounds of muriate of potash 50 per cent, would analyze: 10.00—2.74—3.10, the middle figures representing nitrogen, equivalent to ammonia 3.29. A worn, sandy soil, especially when the original furest was principally pine, is most likely to need a good percentage of potash. Try some competitive rows without potash and see for yourself.

ROOT ROT, BLACK ROOT, WILT OF COTTON.

Charles L. W..., Osborn, Ga.—I have been told by those who have tried it that land that was planted in peas, either sowing them or planting in 3-foot rows and cultivating them, that if the same land was planted in cotton the following years that the cotton would die out badly, with black root. Is that true or not? Inclosed find stamp for reply. Thanking you in advance.

Answer—The "authorities" within my reach say that the "wilt" disease of cowpeas and the "black root" or "root rot" of cotton are similar in their effects, but are caused by totally different species of fungi, and not communicable from one to another. The spores of both, however, may be present at the same time in the same soil, and both cotton and peas be liable to take the disease. Or the pea-wilt fungus may be absent and the cotton-wilt present, in which case cotton planted after peas on such soil would be liable, but not because it followed the peas, but because the field had been previously planted in cotton and the cotton had root-rot. It is stated by the same authority that it requires not less than five to seven years to get rid of the cotton root-rot by not planting the infected land to cotton.

CALCULATING FORMULA.

J .G. Carter, Scott, Ala.—Please send me a formula that will make a high-grade guano, say 9—2—3, or a 10—2—4, or a 10—3—2, how much and what would be best for me to buy to make high-grade guano, etc. I had bought some cotton seed meal to use before I saw your article in The Constitution.

Answer—My article on "Fertilizer Formulas" covers the grounds of your inquiry in a general way, and the details are simply a matter of arithmetic. Get 16 per cent acid phosphate, 12 or 14 per cent dried blood (or 12 per cent tankage), and muriate of potash. Suppose you have 16 per cent acid, 14 per cent blood and 50 per cent muriate of potash. When you say you want to mix so as to get a guano that would analyze 9—2—3, or 10—2—4, or 10—3—3, you really want to get a mixture that will contain the three ingredients in the same relative proportions, whether a little higher grade or a little lower, or a good deal lower. For instance, in a 9—2—3 guano the percentage of phosphoric acid (9) is just 4½ times the percentage of nitrogen (2), and just 3 times the percentage of potash (3). And so with a 10—2—4, the phosphoric acid being 5 times the nitrogen and 2½ times the potash; and in a 10—3—3 the phosphoric acid is 3 1-3 times as much as the other two. Then mix:

100 pounds acid, 16 per cent, 25 pounds 14 per cent and 10 pounds of muriate, 50 per cent, and you get a mixture that would analyze 11.85—2.68—3.95, which is in same proportion as 9—2—3, but nearly one-third higher grade.

Or take and mix as follows:

100 pounds acid, 16 per cent, 22 pounds 14 per cent, and 14 pounds muriate and you get 137 pounds of mixture that would analyze about 11.68—2.33—4.66, proportionate to 9—2—4, but again nearly one-third higher grade.

Or, for a 10—3—3 guano take and mix:

100 pounds acid, 16 per ctnt. 34 pounds blood, 14 per cent, and, 10 pounds of muriate, 50 per cent, and you 144 pounds that would analyze 11.11—3.33—3.33, of same proportions as 10—3—3, but a little more than one-tenth higher grade. If you wish to get the separate amounts of each ingredient in higher numbers, you have only to take, say, 10 times as much of each. For instance, in the last one take 1,000 pounds acid, 340 pounds blood and 100 pounds of muriate

These calculations require nothing but a good knowledge of arithmetic, particularly the rule or "percentage," and any teacher of a sixth-grade in a grammar school should be able to make them.

These calculated results serve, incidentally, to show that the manufacturers may easily make much higher grades, if the farmers were willing to pay higher prices. Buying low grades of guano is much like buying a dozen apples for 10 cents, when a dozen apples, each twice as large, might be bought for 18 cents. That's "about the size of it."

LETTUCE IN COLD FRAMES.

W. M. Vary, Atlanta, Ga.—Last fall I became very enthusiastic on growing some "frame lettuce," so I prepared frames and put down six standard sash. About November 1 I set nice plants of Big Boston about 6 by 8 inches. In the well prepared soil the plants grew finely and in due time filled every inch of the frames, a delight to my eye and enthusiasm. When hard freezing set in I put on the sash. They still grew nicely, and, as I thought a few weeks ago, were beginning to head. Now, as the leaves unfolded they covered the bed and I had no other thought but the head was forming as it should. My disappointment was appalling when, a few days, I made a close examination and found under the large, folded leaves nothing but a hollow space with a little sickly head. Now, it may be that I did not ventilate sufficiently. After I put the sash on they were never removed entirely, but in all weather except very cold the sash were tilted from the rear 4 or 5 inches. The frames were not watered often, as the soil and plants looked as if they did not need it.

Answer—I have no doubt that the cause of the rot was due to insufficient ventilation and possibly too much water. For lettuce the frames should be well raised every day and night when the thermometer does not fall to freezing at the lowest point. There is more danger from under-ventilation and over-ventilation than from the reverse. You should visit some of the up-to-date market gardeners in the vicinity of Atlanta and catch on to the details of their practices with cold frames and hotbeds.

FERTILIZER FOR COTTON.

C. Miller, Dover, Ark.—I want information in regard to fertilizer, as very little is used here. I have had land in cultivation two years; the first in cotton and last in corn and peas. It is sand upland; will make ¾ bale of cotton per acre of good year; grows from 4 to 6 feet high. What I want is something to make fruit. What should I use, how much and how to apply it. Have been looking for something that fills my bill, but haven't seen it so far.

Answer—If you had read carefully my article on "Fertilizer Formulas" in the issue of January you would probably have found it unnecessary to submit the questions. I suggest that you should use a fertilizer having but a small percentage of nitrogen, or none at all, and probably but little or none of potash, but just a simple acid phosphate, which supplies only phosphoric acid—the element most effective in producing fruit. You should apply say 250 to 300 pounds of 16 per cent acid phosphate in the bedding furrows and list on it, say two weeks before planting. You may also find it very helpful to put 25 to 40 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre in the furrow with the planting seed or on top of the ground above the covered seed immediately after planting.

DEFECTIVE PECAN TREE.

Mrs. C. E. Copeland, Lake City, Fla.—I have a seedling pecan tree growing on the edge of a wood yard, and it seems to be perfectly healthy, and has borne two years; but the burr seems to be very thick, and will not open enough for the nut to fall out, and they sprout right there in the burr, hanging on the tree, and then dry up and still hang on the tree. I have never fertilized the tree any, as it is doing so well. Please give me information as to how to care for it, to make it more profitable.

Answer—It may be that the tree needs an application of phosphate and potash, but it is more probable that the failure to bear properly is due to an inherent (congenital) defect, as is often the case with seedlings of many species of fruits. As a rule, a seedling pecan—regardless of the quality of the parent nut—is a "snare and delusion," and not likely to be worth the trouble and the space they occupy, usually for 10 or 12 years, before fruiting. Try an application (at once) of 5 or 6 pounds of 10—4, or 8—4, acid and potash, scattering it on the surface in a circle as far out as the branches overhang, and dig it into the ground with a pronged hoe. If it does not do better this year, get someone who knows how to top-graft the tree with a variety known to be all right.

COTTON SEDD V. COTTON SEED MEAL.

W. G. Heyward, Pineora, Ga.—Will you please tell me which will be most profitable to use on my land, the raw cotton seed or the cotton seed meal?

Answer—I presume you do not find it convenient to read this department as closely as you might, else you would have observed that for years past I have insisted that farmers should not commit the folly of using sound, merchantable cotton seed as a fertilizer. Hardly an issue of the paper appears during this season of the year without at least an incidental allusion to the subject, and in the issue of November 8, 1910, I published a special article on the subject. Every ton of sound seed contains from 40 to 42 gallons of oil, worth 7 to 8 cents a pound, or about $20. This oil is of no practical value as a fertilizer. My experiments on the station farm showed conclusively that when a farmer uses cotton seed directly as a fertilizer he loses from $10 to $15 on every ton so used. It is even doubtful if he can afford to use the cotton seed meal as a fertilizer. At not more than $28 per ton for the highest grade of cotton meal (7 per cent nitrogen) he may use it as a fertilizer. Nitrate of soda at $54 per ton would be as cheap as high-grade cotton meal at $28 per ton

A Confident Collector.

In his article on the city of Baltimore in Harper's for February, Harrison Rhodes tells, amusingly, of some of the treasures which one seldom sees but which are in a way for sale.

"There is still probably to be found in one of the least-frequented corners of Baltimore an extensive collection of paintings, which has not spared the Italian, English, Dutch, French, nor Spanish schools of art. It is on sale—after a fashion. That is to say, it is not offered, but to any one who might casually stumble on it, the owner would confess, with some hesitancy and shyness, that she would like to turn it into money. She is a pleasant, middle-aged lady, dressed in a fashion that soehow makes you think of Godey's Ladies' Book. She is no professed connoisseur of art. But her father was fond of paintings, and these 'used to be about the house.' She was always fond of the Murillo, but she herself liked the blue of the Titian better before the picture was repainted by that Italian from New York, who did so much cleaning up for her father. (As to the Titian she is unmistakably right. As things now stand the version of the same subject in the Uffizi at Florence is the better painting.) Still, she likes the pictures, all of them, and is not modern enough to be troubled by any doubts as to their authenticity. Indeed, has not the portrait of the Dauphin of France been recognized as such by several visitors unmistakably foreign, and possibly, so she suspects, emissaries of the French government? And did not an agent of the Boston Museum of Art once obtain access to the collection disguised as a steel worker on strike? There is a local expert of some skill in this matter of paintings, and it was once delicately hinted to the lady of the collection that if he were to examine and guarantee her pictures their sale might be easier. She, bless her for it! drew herself up delicately, and made an answer which the sentimental tourist himself could never have invented and put in the mouth of any proud aristocrat.

Popular Election of Senators.

(Harper's Weekly.)

It seems entirely probable that at the present time a majority of the voters of the entire country have come to believe that the election of senators should be taken away from the legislatures, and it is not improbable that there is also a majority in favor of having the several states choose their senators precisely as they choose their governors. But there are many who have come very reluctantly to this position. There are many who, though confronted with undeniable and extremely depressing instances of improper selections of senators by legislatures, are yet loath to consent that senators and representatives shall be chosen by practically the same method. The popular election of congressmen has not had ideal results. Popular elections of senators will not insure that the best man shall always be chosen. In some states, and in certain moods of the electorates, the demagogue will have such an advantage that the best man will be pretty sure not to be chosen—even if he runs. The new method will have its disadvantages, and intelligent people should make up their minds by weighing those disadvantages against the admitted evils of the present method—not by merely deciding that the present method is imperfect. In the long run, whatever the method adopted, the results are going to depend mainly on the amount of virtue in our various bodies politic—not on the method itself. Unquestionably, one method may be distinctly preferable to the other as making public opinion more powerful, more controlling. But when public opinion is as alert and informed and full of conscience as it should be, almost any method can be made to yield good men.

"You're Drunk."

It is not easy to speak of his work without enthusiasm. Much of it is mere hack work, of course, but in the most unsuspected place one comes on the sparkle of pathos that blurs the eyes. His writing runs the gamut from rollicking fun to the most tender poetry. Not one in a hundred of the men who have chuckled over "You're Drunk" knows the name of the author.

Apartment Houses

On the corner of Capitol avenue and Fulton street are three apartment houses, on a lot 98x150.

Two buildings front Capitol avenue and one fronts Fulton street; each has four nice family apartments.

The Capitol avenue flats rent at $32.50 each, or $260; and the ones on Fulton street rent at $25 each, or $100—making a total rental of $360 a month, or $4,200 a year.

We can sell this fine rent-paying plant for $30,000—a 14 per cent investment in high-class property. The rents are conservative, and all the apartments are in good condition.

GARRIOS CAUGHT IN TEETH OF GALE

Aviator Is Forced to Land Nine Miles From Aviation Field.

Houston, Texas, January 29.—Forced to land on account of darkness, in a field nine miles from the aviation grounds, Roland B. Garrios, the aviator who, to escape the ravages of souvenir-hunters, flew into the teeth of a gale this afternoon, stood guard over his machine for several hours before his automobile, one of 20 sent out to search for him, picked him up. He will fly his machine back to the aviation field tomorrow.

Rene Simon, who was also forced to take to the air, landed hardly a mile from the grounds and his machine was rolled back to the hangar after the crowd had dispersed.

Garrios and Simon had just returned after brief flights in the face of a 35-mile-an-hour wind when the over-enthusiastic spectators broke through the barriers. Before the machines could be returned to the hangar they had surrounded the aviators and their crafts and were pulling on the machines, threatening to tear them apart, when hurried orders were given to reascend. The buzzing of the motor and the revolving of the propeller blades drove the crowd back far enough to permit of a start.

Simon flew low and came to earth quickly. He was out of range of the field. From the grounds, however, the last seen of Garrios he was a speck in the sky about 2,000 feet up, headed east. Automobiles were sent in search of the man and it was not until 10 o'clock tonight that a report was made that he was found.

The local meeting will be ended tomorrow.

Vanquished.

Once, suddenly, she met Death face to face—
This slender woman, to whom life was dear,
And he, the King of terrors. Near, no near
He stood like some great monster, dropped from space.
Yet in her lifted eyes there was no trace
Of anything like cowardice or fear;
And in surprise he dropped his lifted spear
And let her unmolested in her place.

Then once again she saw him. Down the years,
In hideous guise, with unrelenting mien,
The intervening space he slowly trod.
With dry, hot eyes, too terrified for tears,
She scanned the pain-paved avenues between,
Then fell to earth and shrieked, "Save, save me, God!"

Lincoln's Birthday.

A sacred day is this
A day to bless;
A day that leads to bliss
Through bitterness.
For on this day of days,
One wonders morn
In far off forest ways
Was Lincoln born!

Who supped the cup of tears,
Who ate the bread
Of sorrow and of fears,
Of war and dread;
Yet from this feast of woes,
His people's pride,
A lored immortal rose
All glorified!

—John Kendrick Bangs, in February Lippincott's.

ADVERTISING TALKS

AND CONFIDENCE, I would select newspapers that have the confidence of their readers, because it is easy to gain the good will and trade of those inclined to believe what they see in a newspaper.

Before starting to advertise, I would look well into the POLICY of the store—go carefully over every department and see whether the methods in vogue could be IMPROVED in any way.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS are lasting and generally decide the future success of any store.

A store with departments conveniently placed, well lighted, with merchandise attractively and tastefully arranged, will make a GOOD IMPRESSION on the customer.

If this good impression is backed up with GOOD MERCHANDISE and GOOD SERVICE, the customer will come back again, and in addition to that, will recommend the store to friends.

If the service is poor and the merchandise does not bear out the claims made for it in the advertising then no matter how well written the advertising may be, nor how many people come to the store through its influence, they will not be PERMANENT customers and the store will not attain a LASTING success.

So far as ADVERTISING COPY is concerned, my belief is that the best advertising copy is that which gives the reader the CLEAREST IDEA of what they will find when they get to the store.

There is a great advantage in not OVERSTATING your proposition. Give the public a little BETTER merchandise and a little better service than you promise, and the results will more than pay you.

ALLEGED VOTE BUYERS WILL NOT BE INDICTED

Danville, Ill., January 29.—One more day's work by the Vermilion county grand jury will tell whether the alleged corruption at past elections in this county will result in indictments.

Foreman Isaac Woodyard and the grand jury have struggled through two weeks' searching, in which the head of the circuit court itself, the occupants of the mayor's office of Danville, and a hundred prominent politicians have been brought in before the inquisitors, and have remembered nothing illegal within the eighteen months' period set by Judge E. R. E. Kimbrough.

It was semi-officially announced that if the witnesses to appear late Monday fail to "tear the situation wide open," the grand jury would finish its other business and adjourn about Friday till just before the spring election. Information obtained tonight from responsible sources has it that not a sigle indictment for vote traffic will be brought, and that, at best, but a few indictments for perjury might be expected.

Let's go together on that printing you've put off getting till after the holidays. Foote & Davies Co., 65 E. Alabama St.

Farmers After Grasshopper.

(From The Chicago Examiner.)

Several hundred agriculturists from all sections of the state have formed the Colorado Agricultural Anti-Pest Association to exterminate crop-destroying insects.

Particular attention is to be paid to the grasshopper, which in the last three years has caused loss to farmers estimated at millions of dollars.

A bill will be introduced in the legislature requiring railroad and ditch companies to share the work of insect extermination by carrying on the work along their rights of way.
